U.S. Steel to buy National Steel plant

GRANITE CITY STEEL, seen in this aerial photo, is among the properties U.S. Steel is proposing to purchase.

GC Steel included in sale package

By GARY SCHNEIDER
Press-Record Editor

Agreement has been reached in principle for the sale of Granite City Steel and National Steel Corporation's other steel-making facilities to United States Steel. The action, if approved by all regulatory bodies and the stockholders of both companies, would divest National Inter-Group, Inc. (NII), parent corporation of National Steel, of all of its steel manufacturing operations, including the Granite City Steel Division.

NII announced approval of the boards of directors of NII and U.S. Steel of an agreement in principle for U.S. Steel to acquire the National Steel Group, which also includes Midwest Steel in Portage, Ind., and Great Lakes Steel near Detroit, Mich., as well as National's mining and coke operations, in exchange for a combination of cash and securities of U.S. Steel totaling $875 million. There also are "balance sheet considerations which increase the value of the transaction to National Inter-Group to approximately $700 million," according to a news release from NII.

ANNOUNCEMENT at 11 a.m. yesterday of the sale came as a surprise to many. Word of the sale swept through the plant and the city. Ed Sambuchi, vice president and general manager of Granite City Steel, told a representative of Granite City Mayor Paul Schuler that the news came as a surprise to him. Sambuchi was unavailable to talk to the press.

Under the agreement in principle, U.S. Steel will acquire all of the steel-related businesses of National Steel Corp., including three steel plants, iron ore and coal operations and will assume existing debt and other liabilities relating to National Steel's steel business.

National Inter-Group will concentrate on financial services, aluminum production and diversified businesses and hopes "to grow into new fields in the years ahead," said Howard M. Love, chairman of NII. However, NII remains responsible for all obligations resulting from the recent sale of the Weirton, Pa., steel plant to its employees.

NATIONAL STEEL, which dropped from the fourth largest steel company in the nation to the seventh largest when Weirton was sold, now will join the largest steel company in the nation. However, U.S. Steel has been plagued by financial difficulties, having a net loss of $983 million in the fourth quarter of 1983, even after a $1.15 billion pre-tax charge, the largest quarterly write-off in the history of American steel. For the year 1983, U.S. Steel had a $1.16 billion net loss as sales fell to $17.52 billion, down 7.3 percent. In 1982, U.S. Steel's net losses were $361 million and sales were $18.91 billion.

National Inter-Group had a $37 million operating profit during 1983, but lost $154 million during the year due to the sale of Weirton Steel and other write-offs. In 1982, National Inter-Group lost $462 million, including operating losses of $225 million.

Love said yesterday, "The sale of our National Steel Corp. subsidiary to U.S. Steel is something we did not anticipate or seek. After careful evaluation by us, it became clear that this proposal was definitely in the best interests of NII stockholders and, indeed, the best interests of our employees. This proposal is an opportunity to realize the intrinsic value of our modern and highly-efficient steel operations."

"THIS ALSO is a unique opportunity to reposition our company. We will be able to maintain and grow our four remaining business groups and take advantage of new business opportunities to increase the return to our shareholders," Love said.

He added, "Our aluminum business is profitable and its outlook is very bright. The Financial Services Group, First Nationwide Financial Corporation, achieved

Steelworkers surprised at plant sale

By GEORGEANN MCGEE
of the Press-Record

The announcement that National Steel will be sold to the United States Steel Corporation ("abergasted") the area Steelworkers' union District Director Buddy Davis. He says the change will probably mean another uphill climb for steel plant employees.

He cited the "adversary relationship" currently existing between U.S. Steel and the United Steelworkers of America (USWA) as one of the reasons he is not pleased with the sale plans.

"IT CAME as a shock to me," Davis said, adding, "I'm just flabbergasted." Those comments

Fourth owner for 105-yr.-old mill?

The approval of the sale of National Steel Corporation to the United States Steel Corporation would open another chapter into the series of owners of the Granite City Steel mill.

The mill's history goes all the way back to a humble tinning business. The business, owned by one of the Niedringhaus brothers, began in 1855. Later the tin shop was incorporated as the St. Louis Stamping Company.

IN 1899 this corporation became part of the National Enameling and Stamping Company (NESCO). The stamping works led directly to the establishment of Granite City, which was named for its granite ironware products.

About this time, F.G. and William F. Niedringhaus, two St. Louis granite ware manufacturers, became very interested in Granite City because of its proximity to St.

Louis. Since their graniteware products required steel, they decided to found a rolling mill that could manufacture this steel.

Work on a steel mill was begun in 1927, when the company was acquired by the NESCO company, forming a separate steel firm.

THE FIRM remained the Granite City Steel Company until August of 1971, when the company was acquired by the National Steel Corporation.

The merger of Granite City Steel Company and National Steel Corporation combined a producer of hot-rolled coils (Granite City) with a producer of cold-rolled, galvanized sheets and tin plate which needed hot-rolled coils.

The latest transaction of the steel company to U.S. Steel Corporation, will see the former tin shop become a member of the largest steel company in the nation.

U.S. Steel casts plan

In a statement issued yesterday by David M. Roderick, chairman of the Board of United States Steel Corporation, it was announced that U.S. Steel plans to acquire all of the steel-related businesses of National Steel Corp., including its three steel plants, iron ore and coal operations.

Roderick reiterated a previous statement that the restructuring program now underway in U.S. Steel's steel segment is not one of merely shutting down inefficient facilities, but also involves capital investments in new facilities and acquiring and blending new facilities with existing ones to achieve efficiency.

"Improved cost and efficiency by acquisition, as well as by shutdown, is a necessary part of the program which we have underway," he said.

"Several strategic considerations make this acquisition an appropriate one at this time. We believe we will be able to significantly reduce the cost of raw materials flowing to National's plants. National is coke short; we are long. We believe we are acquiring some very modern facilities and capable people which will be beneficial to U.S. Steel.

"THE ASSOCIATED shift in our product emphasis is also consistent with our program announced in December. In that plan, we reduced our investment dedicated to capital goods markets, such as rail and light structurals, as well as markets in bars, rods and wires. The acquisition of this excellent flat-rolled producer will improve our product balance between capital goods and consumer-oriented markets.

"We expect U.S. Steel earnings and earnings per share to increase as a result of this acquisition. The major increase in earnings will result from the synergies associated with the meshing of the two operations, not from projected earnings from National on a stand-alone basis. These major efficiencies alone will improve pre-tax income and tax flow by about $170 million in a normal production year.

"THE COMBINED companies will require lower capital spending in combination than they would separately."

"The consummation of the proposed transaction would be conditioned on the negotiation and execution of a mutually satisfactory definitive agreement (between the companies) and the receipt of any required regulatory or other approvals and approval of the proposed transaction by National Inter-Group shareholders."

Special Bridal Fair pages appear today

Bridal Fair '84 will be staged Sunday afternoon at Granite City Township Hall, 2060 Delmar Ave., featuring a collection of bridal gowns from Inge's Brides and Formal and wedding cakes and other pastries for receptions provided by Mrs. Seibold's Bake Shop.

There also are 17 participating exhibitors who will display various items and services relative to weddings, showers and receptions.

Shirley Adams will serve as commentator for the fashion show and music during the afternoon will be provided by "Horizon."

There is no admission and the public is being invited to attend the affair, which will begin at 1 p.m. and conclude at 4:30 p.m. Prizes and gifts will be presented to guests throughout the afternoon.

Details and other information in conjunction with the spring-time showing may be found in a special section of today's issue.

Williams shocked at National sale

The following statement was issued Wednesday from the Pittsburgh, Pa., office of Lynn Williams, temporary acting president of the United Steelworkers of America:

"It is with shock and surprise that we find the nation's largest steel producer — which only yesterday posted a record $1.2 billion loss for 1983 and which a month ago, announced a massive shutdown affecting over 15,000 of its employees now acquiring a smaller steelmaker which demonstrated profitability during the same year."

"For some time now, United Steelworkers of America has been saying that there is a process of 'negative modernization' at U.S. Steel, in which the company apparently can find capital for acquisitions and mergers, but is unable to make any significant contribution toward the modernization of its own facilities which would help its employees."

"Coming in the wake of this so-called 'rationalization' announcement of Dec. 27, we deplore this trend and have real concerns for the jobs of workers of U.S. Steel and National Steel which might be affected with this acquisition."

"The continuing crisis in the domestic steel industry is further accelerated by this trend to acquire and combine steelmaking operations at the expense of the livelihood of thousands of Americans and to the detriment of a stable steel industry."

"This acquisition provides further emphasis upon the need to oppose forcefully the continued dumping of illegal steel in the domestic market by foreign producers, which led me to join with Bethlehem Steel last week in a petition before the International Trade Commission."

"We will continue to study the acquisition under the Anti-Trust Laws and insist that the rights of our members at both companies under the current agreement be protected."

The public is invited to attend and admission is by season ticket, or single admission tickets, costing 75 cents for adults and 35 cents for students, available at the door.

Prior to joining the SIUC faculty, Dr. Hammond was principal horn with the Erie Philharmonic, the Erie Chamber Orchestra, the Rhode Island Philharmonic and Maptovan and His Orchestra.

The featured artist will perform Claude Smith's "Three Contrasts for French Horn and Band" in the Thursday night musical event.

He also will be joined by the high school band's French horn section, consisting of Carolyn Butts, David Menendez, Lesley Chaney, Marie Shane, Lori Hildreth and Kim Ames, in performing "Holiday for Horns" by Jack Jarrett.

Other selections to be presented will include: "Gershwin in Concert," arranged by M. Gold;

"Illinois Loyalty March" by T. H. Guild; "American Overture" by Joseph W. Jenkins; "Italian in Aigiers" by G. Rossini; "Heroes Courtship" by R. Strauss; "Night Flight to Madrid" by K. Leslie; and "Semper Fidelis March" by John Philip Sousa.

Dr. Hammond is a former member of the Boston Ballet, the Boston Opera, the American National Opera Company, Arthur Fiedler and the Boston Pops Orchestra and the Columbus Symphony.

In addition to the United States, he has appeared in Canada and France, as well as on television.

A graduate of Ohio State University with a master's and doctoral degree from Boston University, the guest soloist has studied with Barry Tuckwell, James Stagliano, Harry Shapiro, William Kearns and Erwin Miesch.

He has made numerous solo appearances which have included two premier performances of solo works composed specifically for him. Recently, he performed with the Erie Philharmonic in the Martin Concerto and was the featured soloist on natural horn at the Erie Chamber Orchestra's 1983 Mozart Festival.

Additional solo appearances include the M.E.N.C. National Convention, the National Meeting of the American Society for 18th Century Studies and the University of Arkansas Celebrity Series.

Dr. Hammond gave a recent solo performance at the 1983 Chautauque Festival, which was taped for presentation over the Public Broadcasting System.

He is winner of the Walter Damosch Prize and recent recipient of a S.U.N.Y. Research Foundation Award. His international music honors include the Heidenleben International Natural Horn Competition (third place) and the Concours International Gailay Competition (semi-finalist).

Band Director Joseph Owens said tonight's event is the second concert in the 1983-84 season for the Granite City High School Band.

GUEST SOLOIST William Hammond, widely acclaimed hornist and instructor of French horn at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale, will appear as guest soloist with the Granite City High School Band at its 8 o'clock performance tonight in the high school auditorium. Dr. Hammond previously was principal horn with the Erie and Rhode Island philharmonics and was a member of the Boston Ballet, the Boston Opera, Arthur Fiedler and the Boston Pops Orchestra, Columbus Symphony and the American National Opera Company. Joseph Owens will direct the band and the public is invited to attend.

FRANK'S TAX FACTS

Hurrah! The Illinois income tax forms have finally been mailed out and should now be in your hands. As you begin to prepare your Illinois form 1040, keep in mind a new deduction allowed this year. For the first time, real estate tax paid on your principal residence in Illinois can be deducted from your income before figuring your tax. This is a tax savings of 3% of your R. E. tax paid. You will also note on the IL-1040 that the rate for the year is 3% as compared to 2.5% for 1982. I am finding many people are owing additional tax or getting a smaller refund this year than last and especially so if they worked in Missouri. Therefore, don't be too surprised at your end result.

If I can help you with your taxes this year, please call for an appointment or an estimate of the preparation fee.

Cruse to coordinate Simon campaign

Tim Carpenter, campaign manager for Paul Simon for U.S. Senator in the 21st Congressional District, has announced the appointment of Van Dee Cruse as the Granite City area campaign coordinator. Cruse is Granite City Township assessor.

In an interview in his office, Cruse said, "It is an honor to support the candidacy of a man who has represented our district in the legislature for many years and has served a term as lieutenant governor and three terms as a congressman from Illinois. Over this span of 28 years, he has a distinguished record of effectiveness, of fairness, and of good sense. Illinois needs a leader and a doer in the United States Senate. Paul Simon is Illinois' best."

Cruse also stated that one of his principal functions as area coordinator is to get the important campaign issues before the public. As the campaign progresses, it is planned to develop a strong volunteer organization of people who share Simon's belief in good government, he said. His first action in setting up the organization was to appoint Vasil Eftimoff and Henry Bieniecki as assistants. Both of these individuals have been friends of Simon from his early legislative days.

Cruse also announced that the Simon headquarters for the Granite City area will be located at 2945 Madison Ave. Telephones have not been installed, but individuals wishing to volunteer may call Cruse at his office at 877-6150 or at home at 451-7458. Eftimoff may be reached at 877-7134 and Bieniecki can be reached at 876-6204.

$2 MILLION RICHER. Mr. and Mrs. Robert (Anno) Rucker beat the odds when both won $1,018,400 in Saturday's Illinois state lottery. Unknown to either Mr. or Mrs. Rucker, they both had played the same numbers in the lottery. The six numbers picked were based on family members' birth dates.

Two Lotto winners in Madison

By SUSAN SIGNAIGO-WEICH
of the Press-Record

A person who wins a million dollars in the Illinois State Lottery is considered lucky. But the word "lucky" hardly seems adequate to describe what happened to Robert and Anna Rucker of Florissant, Mo., the husband and wife who both won $1,018,400 from a Madison store in Saturday night's Illinois State Lottery drawing.

The couple, which has played the lotto weekly since last February, didn't realize until Sunday morning that they both had been playing the same numbers.

"I DIDN'T believe it when I found out that we both had picked the same numbers," said Mrs. Rucker. "I'm still in shock."

Mr. Rucker said he had taken his wife's lottery tickets to the Reese Drug Store (304 Madison Ave., Madison) in an envelope, because they both were superstitious about letting each other see the numbers they picked. He said he had previously purchased their tickets at a liquor store on Chain of Rocks Road in Mitchell, but had started buying them at the Reese Drug Store because it was "less crowded" there.

Rucker, a retired Air Force sergeant, said he always picks the tickets up after he finishes shopping at the commissary at the Granite City Army Depot.

THE NUMBERS both Mr. and Mrs. Rucker picked were 6-11-23-25-26-29. The numbers represent the birthdates of their four children and their own birthdays. Valerie, their 24-year-old daughter, was born on June 25; Robbie, their 22-year-old son, was born on Aug. 6; Andy, their 12-year-old son was born on May 29; Michael, a deceased son, was born on April 26; Mrs. Rucker, 43, was born on Sept. 11, and Mr. Rucker, 45, was born on Sept. 23.

Mrs. Rucker said that her daughter, Valerie, who usually plays the weekly lotto, had not purchased her ticket that week. "If she would have played, she probably would have won the lottery also because she usually picked the same numbers as we did," Mrs. Rucker said.

Although the Ruckers will each receive $50,920 a year for the next two years, Mr. Rucker said he does not intend to stop working. "I enjoy my work too much to quit," he said of his position as senior technician at Siemens Medical Systems, St. Louis.

"As soon as I see some of the money, I probably will take a little vacation, but then it will be back to work for me." They may visit friends in England, he told reporters.

AS FOR HIS immediate plans, Rucker said Monday he was going to "go home, take the phone off the hook, get his phone number changed and hide."

Mrs. Rucker has other plans for her winnings. "I'll probably go to college," she said. When asked what type of educational program she will take, she said "business probably, because I'm going to need to learn how to manage all the money I won."

She also said she plans on moving to a bigger house. The couple currently lives in a three-bedroom home in Florissant. "But in this house (the new one), I'm going to have everything that I want — everything I couldn't afford before."

THE COUPLE won $350 in the Illinois State Lottery at an earlier date, when Mr. Rucker won the daily lottery.

The Ruckers say they will continue to play the lotto weekly, although they said it may be hard to come up with another number combination that is as successful as the last one has been.

Lottery officials say this is the first time two relatives have won the same grand prize. Odds for winning in Saturday's game were 1 in 3,438,380.

THERE WERE three winning tickets in Saturday's lottery. The third winning ticket went to Thomas Taylor, 46, an air freight truck driver for Burlington Northern Railroad at Chicago's O'Hare Field. Unlike the Ruckers, Taylor said he picked the six numbers by random.

Claud Allen

Funeral services were conducted on Saturday, Jan. 21, at the Edwards Chapel in Doniphan, Mo., for Claud E. Allen, 92, of Doniphan, formerly of Granite City.

He died Wednesday, Jan. 18, 1984, in the Doniphan Retirement Home. He was the last conductor for the Illinois Terminal Railroad who operated the street car line from this area to St. Louis, until the service was discontinued.

Mr. Allen was born Aug. 15, 1891, in Livingston County, and also had lived in St. Louis. He and his wife, the former Elizabeth Gebb, were married Nov. 9, 1912, in Doniphan. She died June 12, 1977.

Mr. Allen was a member of the First Baptist Church in Doniphan, and had resided in the county since his retirement in 1970.

record earnings in 1983 and has grown to be the eighth largest savings and loan association with $8.5 billion of assets. The Distribution and Diversified Business Groups provide NII with opportunities to grow into new fields in the years ahead.

However, NII's growth will be unrelated to the future of National's steel mills, once they are acquired by U.S. Steel.

AFTER The transfer of ownership, NII is expected to have assets of approximately $1.5 billion and total equity of almost $1 billion, primarily in industrial distribution, aluminum and financial services, according to a press release from NII issued yesterday.

The Steel Group to be acquired by U.S. Steel had assets at the end of 1983 of approximately $2 billion, sales of $2.3 billion, coal reserves of approximately 300 million tons and iron ore reserves of approximately 450 million tons. Steel shipments in 1983 totaled 1,034,000 tons and steel production totaled 4,576,000 tons.

In addition to the Steel Group's profit of $22 million before special adjustments, the Energy Group of National Steel Corp. had an operating profit of $1.1 million before special adjustments.

THE SALE is contingent upon "the negotiation and execution of a mutually-satisfactory definitive agreement, the receipt of any required regulatory or other approvals, and approval of the proposed transaction by the shareholders of National Intergroup," yesterday's news release says.

Under the terms of the agreement in principle, U.S. Steel can pay for National Steel in one of two ways, at its option. One way is to pay approximately $75 million at closing, including $30 million in cash and $45 million in a new series of U.S. Steel Cumulative Convertible Junior Preference Stock. The other way, U.S. Steel can pay $100 million in cash, 8,835,344 shares of Cumulative Convertible Junior Preference Stock and 2 million shares of a new series of U.S. Steel Adjustable Rate Preferred Stock. The Cumulative Convertible Junior Preference Stock would not be transferable by National Intergroup and each share would be convertible into 1,000 shares of U.S. Steel Common Stock, only in connection with an underwritten public offering of the underlying common stock providing for broad distribution.

The news release also says, "The transaction also includes additional balance sheet considerations which increase the value of the transaction to National Intergroup to approximately $700 million."

Grand jury may look into assessments of car dealers

By JUDY TAPLIN

Madison County State's Attorney Don Weber told a reporter Wednesday that he will ask a grand jury to look into the legality of proposed reductions in property assessments for auto dealerships in the county.

The county Board of Review, after a hearing Monday, is considering a request by the auto dealers to keep their 1983 assessments at 1982 levels. BOARD OF Review member Fred Finck said he expects that the three-member board will look favorably on the auto dealers' request.

One question is: If an auto dealership has been hurt by the economy in the past few years, is that reason enough to lower its property tax assessment?

Madison County Supervisor of Assessments James Barton thinks so.

But at least some township assessors do not.

And Weber said he wants to find out if it is legal to single out the car dealers for cuts.

DAVE CROFT of Croft Motors in Collinsville was present at Monday's meeting, as were Barton, Shirley Voegelé of Granite City and Finck from the Board of Review. Clarence Brown of Cassens & Sons in Edwardsville and assessors from Wood River and Alton townships.

Bob Harris of Granite City, Board of Review chairman, was not present.

Croft, who said he was representing the Collinsville Auto Dealers Association, was asking for 1983 assessments to be reduced.

A list of all new car dealers in the county was submitted to the Board of Review.

Finck told reporters that reductions in assessments would be considered for all on the list, and that the list was viewed as an informal appeal for all the dealers.

FINCK SAID the meeting Monday served as Croft's hearing on his assessment appeal and as a hearing for the others, also.

Not all the auto dealers apparently filed formal appeals in the required 30-day period after assessment lists were published. But Finck said the Board of Review, on special occasions, can take appeals after the 30-day period.

In Monday's meeting, Finck asked for Croft and other auto dealers to submit financial operating statements within the next several days to help the board make its decision on the request.

POLETTI assessed the car dealership at $177,140 in 1983; Croft is asking that the Board of Review lower it again to $66,790.

Polett says such an amount would be very low when the price of Croft's land and the value of the building are considered. The assessor estimates that, without taking income into account, the property is worth about $660,000 currently.

Property tax assessments are, by law, supposed to be one-third of fair market value.

Weber says reducing assessments for the car dealers would raise taxes for everyone else and would amount to a subsidy for the dealers. He said he has asked assistant state's attorney Keith Jensen to present the matter to the grand jury.

No audit in Nameoki

By PAT HAY LUTZ
for the Press-Record

With the 1984 fiscal year ending this February, Nameoki Township has yet to file an audit report for 1983 fiscal year, and according to George Miller, executive director of Township Officers of Illinois, the township is in danger of losing its federal revenue sharing funds, which, total approximately $50,412 for 1984.

Don Schaefer, a representative from State Comptroller Roland Burris' office confirmed that, as of Monday, Nameoki Township was indeed delinquent in filing an audit report for fiscal year 1983, which ended Feb. 28, 1983. According to Schaefer, townships must file the audit reports, within six months after the end of the fiscal year and may receive an extension of up to 60 days after that to submit a report.

Acting legal counsel in the legal affairs division of the comptroller's office, John Stevens, indicated that Nameoki township had been given an extension, but was still delinquent in submitting the report by the end of October. "Illinois statutes dictate that townships with an annual financial report of $200,000 or more file an annual financial report (prepared by the supervisor) as well as an audit report performed by an external auditor," Stevens said.

"With an appropriation of $405,431, Nameoki Township certainly falls into that category."

"We sent them an indication of delinquency in the middle of November and received a letter from Supervisor Harry Briggs which said that we should receive the audit report by the end of this week (last week)," Stevens said.

"We still don't have the report and if we don't receive it in two to three weeks, we'll send the second and last letter reminding them of their obligations," he added.

If the township does not respond to the second letter, Stevens explained, the comptroller's office, at the expense of the township, which would mean that Nameoki taxpayers would pay for two audits.

If Nameoki officials submit a late audit, it will be accepted by the comptroller's office, and no audit will be ordered.

Stevens also stated that the annual financial report was received by the comptroller's office last Friday and that Briggs affirmed on that report that an independent audit was performed in accordance with state law, although an audit has never been submitted. (According to the unsigned annual report copy given to the Press-Record, the question, "If total appropriation exceeds $200,000, was an independent audit performed in accordance with the statute?" was answered "Yes.")

Supervisor Briggs admitted that the township is late in submitting the report because of delays caused by the auditing firm, James Duggan of St. Louis. "We've submitted the annual report to Burris' office," Briggs said. "That was the main thing we had to get in. The auditors assured me that we would get the audit in by the end of the week."

Staff bonuses are defended

State's Attorney Don W. Weber this week said bonuses to his employees are given at the end of the fiscal year in lieu of raises. He defended the practice as helpful for cost control and budget balancing.

Weber said he waits until the year is nearing an end before deciding on office furniture or other purchases. Based on the remaining available funds, he distributes bonuses in recognition of outstanding service.

The prosecutor added that this approach has avoided the kind of layoffs and service reductions experienced at some county offices.

Bonuses paid in December were $600 or $750 for assistant prosecutors, $1,500 for the chief assistant, $400 to $600 for investigators and aides, and $400 for secretaries.

Weber said nearly all staff members contribute to his political fund but are not required to do so. Most are Democrats who also worked for his predecessor, a Democrat.

Concerns about U.S. Steel plan

It was with mixed feelings that we greeted the surprising news yesterday that National Steel has agreed to be purchased by the ailing United States Steel Corporation.

As James Pennekamp, executive vice president of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce views it, we may well have just joined one of the "blue chip" industries by linking with the largest steel-maker in the United States.

On the other hand, in talking with employees and union members, we sense fear of the unknown. National Steel was constantly upgrading and modernizing the Granite City plant, assuring a bright future.

They cite U.S. Steel's firing of numerous workers, even though they had accepted wage and benefit concessions, as an example that the U.S. Steel should be feared. They also recall that U.S. Steel was willing to import steel slabs from England for processing here, which would have put hundreds of Steelworkers out of work. Although that plan fell through, there is no guarantee that it will not come up again in the near future.

Nearly everyone agrees that U.S. Steel certainly did not purchase the efficient Granite City Steel mill to close it. With its new continuous slab caster, modern computerized 90-inch hot roll finishing line, basic oxygen furnaces rather than open hearth furnaces, and other modern steelmaking facilities, Granite City Steel is an up-to-date and profitable plant.

We hope the government regulatory agencies will take a good look at the proposed sale to determine if it is in the best interests of all involved, including this community. If the sale is approved, we hope U.S. Steel will be as good a neighbor, employer and friend as National Steel was.

Move the jobs to the workers

President Ronald Reagan indicated that displaced American workers can "vote with their feet," by moving where the jobs are, but we feel he might have it backward.

Today, both members of the average married couple work. For one spouse to move puts a terrible burden on the marriage. For both to move frequently means one has to give up a job as a time when a paycheck is most needed, since the other is out of work.

The answer is not to mobilize the workers to the jobs, but to bring the jobs to the workers. This can be done by the federal government with incentives for industries to locate in areas of high unemployment.

The Urban Institute points out in a recent report that relocating workers leaves behind great difficulties. Declining Midwestern towns suffer from underutilized school buildings, empty factories and stores, unused streets and sewers and other expensive improvements while burgeoning Sun Belt towns have to build from the ground up to accommodate the swelling populations.

The government can and should use its resources to encourage businesses to move where the labor is. Retraining programs can make workers in areas of high unemployment more attractive to industries planning a move. Tax incentives can be offered in target areas to encourage industry to move to those places where employment is most needed.

Perhaps it is a pipe dream, but it just makes sense. It would be a lot easier and less traumatic to the workers, cities and states to move the jobs to the workers rather than trying to move the workers to the jobs.

Much competition in primary

Only six and a half weeks from now, Quad-Cityans will participate in the 1984 primary election. Quantitatively and qualitatively, local residents have many decisions to make—although some of their selections may not be difficult despite the large numbers.

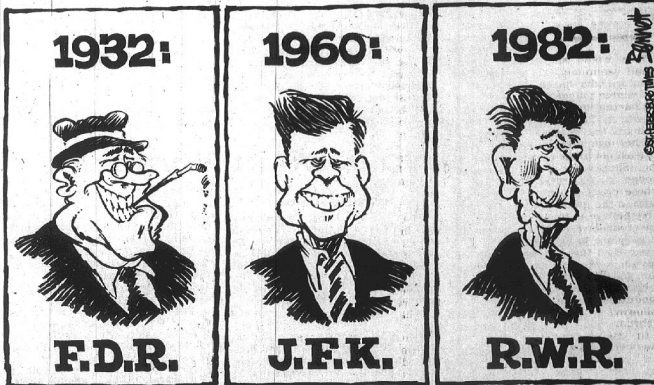

On the Democratic ballot March 20, eight are seeking the presidential nomination and even more are running for congressional delegate positions. There are five contenders for the U.S. Senate, three candidates for Congress and, in some instances, competition for County Board member and precinct committeeman. No primary competition exists, however, for state representative or for five Madison County office nominations.

The Republican ballot also has more contests than usual, with five seeking the U.S. Senate nomination, four running for the Congressional nomination and two vying for Madison County state's attorney.

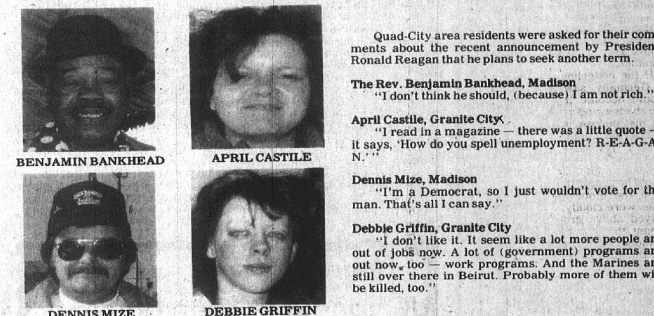

Even at this early point it might be possible to pick out a few sure winners and a few certain losers in the primary. But there is ample evidence to show that some races could be close and that everyone's vote is important.

Unlike Communist and other totalitarian countries, there is a real choice and Quad-Cityans have much at stake. All who are eligible to cast a 1984 ballot should do so. It is a high privilege—and a duty.

Urges 'checkoff' to aid veterans home

To the Editor:

On Nov. 1, 1983, Governor James R. Thompson signed Senate Bill 1111 into law. This new law now allows taxpayers this year and in coming years to donate a portion of their 1983 Illinois state income tax refund to our Veterans Home in Quincy. This can be done simply by checking the appropriate box on the 1983 Illinois income tax return, which all Illinois taxpayers are now preparing to file. The contribution will be in the amount of $10 or the amount of the refund, whichever is less.

I urge you to bring this new law to the attention of all of your readers. This is an exceptional chance for all of our 2,500,000 gallant Illinois veterans and others to reach out and lend a helping hand to our Quincy Veterans Home and our veteran comrades who reside at the home. The Quincy Veterans Home was founded in 1887 to care for Civil War veterans and has served thousands of veterans of eight wars and conflicts. The home is dedicated to helping those veterans in need and requires the support of all our veterans and their families. These contributions will greatly enhance the home and insure the continuation of its vital mission. Please "check-off" the $10 refund contribution on your 1983 Illinois income tax return and alert to all the importance of helping the Quincy Home with this program.

Feels strict parents are being condemned

To the Editor:

I wonder if the facts and figures published by the state in a recent article reflect actual neglect or physical abuse cases. It is hard to believe in excess of 60,000 cases in Illinois, a 25 percent increase in Chicago alone, 12 percent increase over all. Come on!

If we do not question them, they (the state) will never have to answer. Parents, did you know that administering corporal discipline to your children defines you as psychotic, brutal, aggressive and a guilt-laden self-destructive person unable to relate. I hope you don't believe this garbage!

We are led to believe many things, but do we really? We as parents should not submit to an over-reactive society frightened by a fabricated epidemic to sell copies of a book, or sustain job stability as a counselor or social worker.

As a parent and victim of the "indicated abuse" laws, I must confess to being strict, insisting that my children are obedient and respectful and always doing their best in school. As a result, I have been rewarded with two beautiful children, gifted academically, mentally and physically healthy and of extremely good character.

After all of the anxieties, disbelief, disgust and harassment that my family has experienced due to the "indicated abuse" charge, I was recently notified in person by a Department of Children and Family Services (DCFS) representative that this should have never been a "indicated abuse" charge and that I would not hear from the department again. But the fact is that my name will remain in the state central register for five years. My only alternative is to request a formal hearing by a panel of DCF's personnel to appeal a finding of indicated abuse. This must be done if I desire the state to consider deleting my name. I also was informed that even then, there is no guarantee and I would probably be better off to just forget the whole thing. But how can you forget?

Discipline and standards in the home must not be allowed to deteriorate. The mental and physical survival of our children depend on it. The bureaucratic machinery that is taking over today's society will not prevail if we take a stand now.

Do you ever wonder how one of the most desirable and demanding things in life (being a parent) becomes one of the most condemned? Fortunately, though, I intend to continue raising my children as I see fit.

A quick lesson in proper newspaper style

To the Editor:

So the Associated Press stylebook demands that all religious leaders be referred to as "the Rev." or "the Reverend." I was unable to find that book in the local public library, but I am eagerly awaiting future references in the Press-Record to "the Rev. Ayatollah Khomeini" and "the Rev. Pope John Paul II."

In its account of the recent episode involving Father Arentzen, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, certainly no slouch when it comes to style, introduced him in the first paragraph of its article as "the Rev. Edwin Arentzen." Thereafter, it simply called him "Arentzen."

Nowhere in my last letter did I imply that it was wrong to call a clergyman "the Rev." I merely pointed out that this honorific should not be prefixed to the surname alone.

In the "Editor's Note" which was appended to my letter as printed in the Jan. 26th issue of the Press-

Record, you did not address the point I was trying to make, but chose rather to resort to the "So's-your-old-man" method of controversy, in criticizing my use of quotation marks (or "quote marks," as for some reason you called them).

Please allow me again to refer you to Fowler, this time to the second edition of "Modern English Usage" (page 591). The discussion is too long to quote in full, and anyhow you can look it up if so inclined, but Fowler distinguishes two schools of thought concerning questions of order between quotation marks and stops. One is the "logical," which punctuates according to sense and leaves the stops outside of the quotation marks, except where they form part of the quotation itself; the other is the "conventional," which, though lacking in logic, is said to be much favored by editors and publishers.

TOM HOOVER
(Editor's Note: Good debate can yield good results. After reading this letter, we did consult the stylebook in more detail and found out that it is preferable, in second reference, to refer to religious leaders only by their surnames. We yield, Mr. Hoover, and will make every effort to comply with the stylebook. After many years of doing it the way we, however, forgive us if we slip from time to time.

(On the matter of commas and punctuation outside of the quotation marks, the Associated Press Stylebook is very clear. It says, "The period and the comma always go within the quotation marks. The dash, the semicolon, the question mark and the exclamation point go within the quotation marks when they apply to the quoted matter only. They go outside when they apply to the whole sentence.")

(The stylebook calls these "long-established printers' rules." We will continue to follow them, except, of course, "when we goof.")

Matters of vital concern to every taxpayer in Madison County will be up for discussion at the first membership meeting of the new year for the Taxpayer's League of Madison County. It will be held at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 3 in the city courtroom of the City Hall in Granite City.

Perhaps the outstanding issue to come before the meeting will be a discussion of the widely-urged

1 percent tax limitation on real and personal property in the state, which has had the constant backing not only of the Madison County League, but of all Taxpayer's Leagues in the State. H. H. Streeter III of Alton, a member of the House of Representatives in Springfield, who will be the principal speaker at Saturday night's meeting, will touch on this subject. He will also tell of liquor control legislation now pending before both branches of the Legislature in Springfield.

Four frame houses at Harrison and Carver streets in Eagle Park Acres, south of Madison, were destroyed by a fire which was discovered about 11 a.m. today. Venice volunteer firemen, aided by firemen from the Granite City Engineer Depot, brought the rapidly-spreading blaze under control by noon, although they were still fighting flames on the roof of a frame shed.

No one was injured in the fire, which apparently started at the rear of the duplex dwelling at 105 Harrison street. The flames spread north to nearby residences along Carver street, leveling four homes before being stopped.

Firemen said the rear of the house at 105 Harrison street was a mass of flames when they arrived and the blaze was spreading to the other homes on Lots 123-124 Carver street. All of the families were able to flee unharmed but lost most of their possessions.

With many independent truckers joining in a nationwide strike against both high fuel prices and the scheduled 55 mph speed limit, Quad-Cityans fearing shortages stocked up their supplies of food and other goods during the weekend.

U.S. Attorney general William Saxbe yesterday said truck drivers will not be allowed to "shut down the nation" and called on governors to prevent violence against trucks still operating. Drivers say they no longer are able to operate at a profit.

Along with higher costs for diesel fuel and lower speeds, truck drivers are opposed to the limits on the amount of their fuel purchases.

Who would think that a small, seemingly insignificant creature who spends most of the winter snuggled quietly in his burrow could incite grown men to rival on its behalf?

Small the groundhog may be, but insignificant he is not, at least not to the members of the Slumbering Groundhog Lodge of Quarryville, Pa., whose creed professing their faith in the groundhog states, "We believe in the wisdom of the groundhog. We declare his intelligence to be of a higher order than that of any other animal.... We rejoice that he can, and does, foretell with absolute accuracy the weather conditions for the six weeks following each second day of February...."

In all seriousness, the members of the lodge "go all out" each Feb. 2, dressed in top hats, swallowtail coats, white togas or long fur coats to observe the groundhogs on Octorara Creek.

WHY IS so much attention given to a furry little animal? The role of groundhog as weather forecaster stems from age-old customs and beliefs.

During medieval times, it was thought that on Candlemas morning various hibernating animals came above ground to observe the weather.

If the hedgehog, or badger in Germany, saw the sun, he would become frightened by his shadow and crawl back into his burrow to sleep for another six weeks.

TO THE farmer, this meant that more cold weather was on the way, and that the crops would be poorer that year.

On the other hand, if the skies were cloudy, the animal stayed above ground as this meant that the cold weather would soon be followed by spring warmth.

The custom of observing Groundhog Day (or Cademas) was brought to America by British and German settlers.

As many of the German settlers were farmers, they planted their crops according to their faith in the hedgehog or badger.

SINCE THE true animal was nowhere to be found in the new land, the settlers transferred the idea to the groundhog.

Groundhog fables have their home in Pennsylvania, where several clubs have been organized to observe groundhogs on Feb. 2.

There is a great deal of rivalry among the groups, to the extent that they challenge one another's predictions each year.

Even though at one time the National Geographic Society stated that this whole groundhog thing was ridiculous, groundhog followers still swear to this day that the animals have been more accurate than the U.S. Weather Bureau.

Steelworkers

came Wednesday from the man whose union jurisdiction extends from Illinois to Nebraska.

The proposed sale also was greeted with pessimism by Lynn Williams, temporary president of the USWA. His statement appears elsewhere in today's issue of the Press-Record.

The news caught Davis by surprise for two reasons. He never dreamed any group was interested in buying National Steel and he was amazed U.S. Steel would be the prospective purchaser, in light of the tremendous losses U.S. Steel recorded last year. A large portion of those losses came from expected payments to be made to the approximately 15,000 employees the firm has dismissed due to its plant closings.

THE RECENT shutdown of several U.S. Steel steelmaking and processing plants may cause some residents here to worry about the future of Granite City Steel, Davis said, but he does not draw that conclusion himself. He suggested U.S. Steel wants to purchase National Steel to replace those closed plants, which had lacked modern equipment.

The 105-year-old Granite City Steel complex has been gradually upgraded with the latest steel-making advances. "National Steel has been committed to installing new technology," Davis said. He is concerned that U.S. Steel might not continue the progressive steps National Steel has taken.

Dave Dowling, president of USWA Local 67, shares Davis' views that Granite City Steel Division will remain open. He worries, however, that some departments within the local steel plant could be in jeopardy.

DOWLING'S first priority concerning the acquisition will be to try to get assurances the purchase will not have a "negative impact" on job security. He is unsure just how he will begin to acquire those promises.

"People are down about it (the sale) mainly because of U.S. Steel's reputation," Dowling said. He termed that reputation one of poor labor relations and one for hard dealings. "They make decisions which cut a lot of jobs," he said.

Both Davis and Dowling agree the sale of the National Intergroup, Inc., steel subsidiaries may be months in the future.

DAVIS, who is chairman of the national USWA negotiations committee, is particularly dispirited about the sale. He views it as a move away from a stable management-employee relationship that has been slowly built up over the past few years. He said the last two or three years, the employee situation has improved at the Great Lakes and Midwest steel plants owned by National Steel and the situation at Granite City Steel had just started to improve, according to Davis.

Now, local union negotiators must face a whole new set of unknown factors, including what types of individuals will manage the acquired companies and in what directions they wish to lead the steel firms. He recalled the rough period of re-adjustment Granite City Steel experienced when it was bought in 1971 by National Steel. He expects some of those same problems to resurface.

As a member of National Steel, the Granite City plant was one of among three. It will have to adjust to being one among many, many steel plants, Davis said. The change in importance could produce anxiety for the future among employees, he said.

DAVIS explained events leading to the unfavorable relationship between the union and U.S. Steel include the firm's decision to close Chicago's South Works, despite what employees thought was a firm agreement to keep the facility open. The situation resulted in a pending charge of unfair labor practices against U.S. Steel after the firm allegedly blamed the employees for the plant's closing.

Davis claims U.S. Steel has no credibility left with USWA members. "It (credibility) went totally down the drain with that (South Works closing)."

Perhaps the most heated issue centers around U.S. Steel's efforts to import British steel slabs into the country.

THE USWA had conducted an extensive advertising campaign against the plan. The decision could have destroyed thousands of jobs, according to Davis. He is currently concerned the company, while abandoning its negotiations with nationally subsidized plants in Britain, will seek steel from another foreign market.

Dowling expects to call together union members to discuss the possible ramifications of the sale as soon as details of "real merit" arise from amidst all the rhetoric.

SIUC conducts open house

Prospective Southern Illinois University at Carbondale students can get a look at the campus at an open house this Saturday, Feb. 4. Activities are scheduled from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the student center.

During the open house, students may apply for admission, check on-campus housing and find out what types of financial aid are available to SIUC students. Students applying for admission should bring a high school transcript (one which shows graduating class rank) and ACT test results, as well as transcripts from any colleges attended.

SIUC, regarded as one of Illinois' two comprehensive public universities (the other is the University of Illinois), offers academic work from the associate degree to the doctorate, as well as medical and law degree programs. More than 60 academic programs lead to a master's degree—23 lead to the doctorate degree.

Mrs. Jesse Jackson here Saturday

Mrs. Jacqueline Jackson, wife of Democratic Presidential candidate, the Rev. Jesse L. Jackson, will be the featured guest at a public rally in support of her husband at the Venice Recreation Center, 525 Broadway, Venice, at 2:30 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 4.

In announcing Mrs. Jackson's visit here, Venice Mayor Tyrone Echols said Wednesday the candidate's wife will first attend a rally in East St. Louis, scheduled to start about 1 p.m. Saturday.

The East St. Louis visit will culminate in ribbon-cutting and flag ceremonies to launch the opening of the Presidential candidate's Downstate campaign headquarters at 142 Collinsville Ave., East St. Louis.

Mrs. Jackson is expected to leave Venice after a 30-to-45-minute stay to attend a rally in the Alton area, Mayor Echols said. Light refreshments will be served during the local visit.

Several area candidates for the Jackson delegation to the Democratic National Convention in July will greet Mrs. Jackson here, including Mayor Echols and Betty Powell and Mrs. Karen Houser, both of Alton, according to the local mayor.

East St. Louis Mayor Carl Officer, state coordinator of the Jackson campaign in Illinois, will be accompanying the candidate's wife.

Jackson and the former Jacqueline Brown were married in 1962 and are the parents of five children, Santita, 20, Jesse Jr., 18, Jonathan, 17, Yusef, 13, and Jacqueline, 8.

Although unable to be present for Saturday's ceremonies, due to earlier commitments, the candidate is scheduled to visit the East St. Louis area in mid-March. It was learned.

Jackson, 41, is no stranger to the bi-state metropolitan area, having been here on many occasions to lead numerous voter registration drives. In 1979, he also was credited with helping to end the bitter strike of teachers in the St. Louis public schools.

A young protégé of the late Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., the Chicago resident has adopted many of the slain civil rights leader's concepts and styles. Professionally, his life has been closely tied to Chicago civil rights and anti-poverty groups. Jackson presently is on leave as president of Operation PUSH (People United to Serve Humanity), a Chicago-based civil rights organization which he founded in 1971. Earlier, he was on the staff of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference under the late Dr. King, and headed the SCLC's Operation Breadbasket program in Chicago from 1966 to 1971.

Park pool nearing 44th season will receive 'checkup'

By GEORGEANN MCGEE
of the Press-Record

The Granite City Wilson Park swimming pool — first opened to the public in 1940 — was to be tested Wednesday for its worthiness for yet another season. An attempt by commissioners to raise funds to have the aging pool replaced failed five years ago.

The decision now to check the safety and physical condition of the pool was made after water losses were recorded last year. A similar evaluation was conducted in 1978, when significant water losses were discovered.

Commissioners discussed the project with R.W. MacDermott of MacDermott & Associates, St.

Louis, at the most recent meeting of park district last week. The MacDermott engineering firm had conducted the earlier study.

In a previous planning session, David Nolan, director of parks and recreation, said the pool "shows its years and shows it bad." Commissioner John "Jeff" Worthen said he knows the district needs a new pool, but he would never propose a bond issue for a replacement, since the board had already tried and failed to win public backing for such a project. "When that pool goes down, you'll never have another one," George Sykes, park president, told commissioners. "In my opinion, people would never go for a bond issue. I wouldn't have the nerve to ask."

Public criticism apparently convinced the board to cancel the 1978 voter referendum intended to finance a $1.7 million pool, new tennis courts at Wilson, Worthen and West Granite parks and other park improvements. The most controversial aspect was a proposed $1.2 million fan-shaped pool that would have produced surf-type waves alternating at 15-minute intervals with calm water for swimming.

Last week, Commissioner Nancy Sanders, engineering committee chairman, asked MacDermott to include in his survey an inspection of the concrete slab joints, which form to make the pool's bottom. She also told MacDermott to check the side, bottom and pool cap for any cavities that may have formed beneath the concrete surface.

Sykes said his main concern is that the pool be safe, and he is interested in any relatively inexpensive repairs that would reduce the pool water bill. He also said the 1950s filtering system needs an inspection. "I want to make the structural part of the pool at least as safe as last time (it was studied)," the president said.

MacDermott said the design of the pool bottom — consisting of many individual sections — presents a potential water-loss situation where the joints meet. Last summer the pool lost 6 inches of water on two occasions, in addition to smaller losses throughout the season. The hot weather extremes, however, may have been responsible for some of the loss through evaporation, Nolan said.

The weather also may have contributed to the number of those using the pool last summer. "We had a very good year as far as operations," Sykes said. "Certainly, the pool is an asset."

MacDermott said is no way to estimate the expected usefulness of the pool. "On the basis of past performances, that pool could be there another 20 years," he will come back to the board later in about a month with a report on his pool inspection tour.

The pool is tentatively scheduled to open June 1. The date is about a week later than the usual Memorial Day opening. The board president is confident the pool will be found structurally sound and operate as it has in the past.

She broke free and ran to a neighbor's house to call police, Mrs. Holman said. Holman was charged with battery and was released after posting a $52 cash bond.

Home purchase by vets rising

Illinois veterans purchased 11,600 homes during 1983 using their GI Bill guarantees. This is 20 percent more than during 1982.

Grady Horton, director of the Veterans Administration regional office in Chicago, said that most of the loans were made by Vietnam Era veterans, but there was a considerable number of veterans from World War II and the Korean Conflict using the guarantee.

Most of the loans guaranteed by the VA are made with little or no down payment. Horton said that, despite the small amount down, delinquency rates are not much higher than on conventional loans with large down payments.

The present interest rate on GI loans is 12½ percent for 30 years. Features of the loans are they are easily assumable, can be paid off with a minimum interest charge and can be reduced by monthly payments in excess of that required.

May Add Volleyball Buck: SIUE sports healthy, but may drop track, x-country

By AL BARNES
of the Press-Record

The intercollegiate athletic program at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville is in a healthy condition and prospects for continued growth are better than fair, says the university's director of development and public affairs, Dr. James R. Buck, PhD.

Buck's optimism was evident in the Press-Record's talk with him at the annual SIUE men's tennis varsity vs. Alumni, Tuesday night at Belleville's Oakhill Courts, and yesterday's telephone interview with him at his campus office in the John Renden Office Building.

The No. 1 problem facing Buck, of course, is the naming of a new varsity basketball coach to replace Tom Pugliese, who quit his post at SIUE in the spring of 1983 when the university decided to drop play from the division II in the NCAA to division I for the current season. This action forced the cancellation of SIUE men's basketball schedule. Pugliese then accepted a coaching job in Georgia and a search committee at SIUE was named to find a new coach.

Complicating the matter, too, was the release of Eldon Bigham, athletic director at the same time as the dropping of basketball in an uproar growing out of the decision of two SIUE top tennis stars, Ken Flach and Bobby Seguso, to drop out of school to turn professional in spring of 1983.

Buck went out of his way to term the tennis gala at Oakhill, Tuesday night as "just a social gathering of the alumni players were invited by our coach, Kent DeMars, to return and complete against our current varsity."

Both Flach and Seguso, who are now on the pro tour, played Tuesday night and was warmly greeted by the large crowd of SIUE fans in attendance.

Says Buck: "We have moved to correct the problem of athletics such as Flach and Seguso, neither of whom acted illegally under NCAA rules and regulations, of playing for the university and not attending classes."

Added Dr. Buck: "Both are fine young men and we wish them well."

He was in praise of DeMars' current tennis varsity. "Even with four freshmen, the tennis team is more than holding its own with division I competition. Granite City's Bull Rusick looked very good for the Alumni."

Buck revealed that three sports currently represented by SIUE athletes — men's and women's track, plus men's cross country — will very likely be dropped on the recommendation of the school's standing inter-collegiate Athletic Committee.

Women's volleyball will be named to fill at least one of those vacant spots, explained Buck.

How about swimming and diving teams, both men and women? The new all purpose gym will have a swimming pool. "Not at this time," Buck answered and added: "Our current $700,000-plus annual budget would not fund the swimming program." He hinted that they both may be added later.

In reviewing SIUE's current athletic program, Dr. Buck was highly pleased with the men's wrestling program of Coach Larry Kristoff, as well as Wendy Hedberg's women's basketball team, and Gary (Bo) Collins' men's baseball team and Harry Gallatin's golf team. Coming in for high praise from Buck, too, was Coach Cindy Jones' women's softball team. He added: "The women's softball team should be stronger this upcoming season," he predicted.

The men's soccer team's failure to qualify for post-season NCAA tournament play didn't seem to bother Buck. "Coach Guelker has found that Illinois prep players can perform well enough to help his team."

Bob Meyers' women's tennis team drew top praise from Buck: "The women could, with just a little luck, win their first national NCAA tennis title," he predicted. At the Tuesday game, Belleville's Oakhill, Meyers came close to predicting that his charges would win it all.

Buck was asked: "What are the chances of a women's golf team?" He answered: "Very good. We have a new concept called co-ed scheduling. The big problem will be in finding other schools with both men and women's golf teams to schedule."

The interview moved back to the naming of a new basketball coach. "We expect to move immediately, within the next two weeks, to name a new coach. We have set up all but a few games in the allowable 26-game basketball schedule. We felt that the new coach may well want to schedule a few schools he knows."

The field of candidate coaches seeking the SIUE job are thought to contain six applicants: Larry Graham, currently coach at Madison High and at Granite City Center; Randy Albrecht, ex-St. Louis University coach and at present head coach at Meramec Community College; Bob Bone, former Collinsville High star and starter four years at the University of Missouri, St. Louis, and presently head mentor at East Central Community College at Union, Mo.; Mark Bernsen, another former UMSL standout and currently head coach at Jefferson Community College in Hillsboro, Mo.; Jay Harrington, top coach at Belleville Area College and finally, Lee McKinney of Missouri Baptist College. Graham was a finalist to Pugliese three years ago.

The members of the basketball coach selection committee at SIUE are: Cindy Jones, Larry Kristoff, Gary (Bo) Collins, John Meisel, a representative from the SIUE faculty; student body representative Richard Stammers, and Al Ortega of the school's intercollegiate athletic committee. The last named group has, over the years since 1967, been the body which serves the overall governing body of athletics on the SIUE campus.

The selection committee is expected to reduce the list of candidates down to three. That trio will be interviewed by Buck and he is expected to make the final choice to be submitted to SIUE president, Earl Zazerson, for his approval or rejection.

In his overall judgment of the progress of intercollegiate athletics at SIUE, Buck was almost jubilant in pointing out that SIUE's overall sports programs, despite its comparative recent beginnings in 1967, has come along like Gang Busters, Explained Buck:

"In the last three years, a newspaper in Tennessee has ranked all NCAA schools, one through three on their records." Buck said and added: "The Cougars' athletes, men and women, have done supremely well and this past year SIUE was ranked a lofty No. 23. The Cougars have racked up two national crowns in soccer, six in men's tennis, one second place finish and third place in men's baseball and a flock of outstanding individual winners in sports like wrestling and golf."

Buck concluded by saying: "We expect to name an athletic director responsible for all sports. We feel that he or she should not be a head coach of any of the sports."

Thursdays Sports In Basketball Action Trojans take Roughriders for a ride, 87-69

MADISON — Without question, the Madison High School basketball team is one of the premiere teams in the state. Its 17-2 record and its 16-game winning streak are certainly coveted among even some of the best ball clubs.

Why then did the Roosevelt High (St. Louis) Roughriders, now 4-10, give the Trojans such a game Tuesday evening? Both coaches, Madison's Larry Graham and Roosevelt's Roy Ford, gave different reasons for Madison's eventual 87-69 win.

"We knew what kind of team Madison is coming here and we expected a tough game. We gave them a good game for most of it, but we didn't make the lay-ups and free throws when we needed to," Ford said. "On top of that, we didn't get any boards either."

Despite the Ford's harsh words, the Roughriders' inability to make the lay-ups and rebounds, Tuesday's contest was better than the eventual 16-point difference the final score indicates. And although the Roughriders are just 4-10 on the season, Ford said his team's performance Tuesday was no better than usual.

"Every time we play with the intensity that we did tonight. We're not a bad ball club, it's just that the PHL (the St. Louis Public High League) is that difficult," Ford said.

"They beat us because we let them inside. But our kids are young and don't have a lot of experience or height," Ford said. "But we're maturing, and you can bet they'll really be tough next year."

To complicate matters, the Roughriders were without two of their best players Tuesday — Tom Williams and Melvin Strain. Williams, Roosevelt's 6-foot-2-inch center, did not play due to a sprained left ankle. Strain, a forward, did not make the bus.

Even with Roosevelt's shortcoming Graham, like Ford, thought the Roughriders played a fine basketball game. However, the Madison coach cited much of the reason for the closeness of the game as the final game of last year, a sectional championship loss to Bunker Hill. Cole was confident of the Trojanettes' fledgling ability.

But historically, the Trojanettes are one of the best teams in the area. Each of the last two seasons, for example, they're zipped through their season only to lose to their old nemesis, Bunker Hill. Consequently, Cole, being somewhat superstitious about admitting greatness before it's definite, has been reluctant to admit her team's potential at least openly.

But, with Tuesday's lopsided victory over Roosevelt, prior to the boys' final game things are different. It was a confidence builder for Cole and her belief in the Trojanettes' ability.

When Coach Cole had been reluctant to openly assess the Trojanettes' abilities, other people haven't.

Now, he needs to come on if we're going to play well," Williams scored two points Tuesday.

now. He needs to come on if we're going to play well," Williams scored two points Tuesday.

Trojanettes rip Roosevelt, 79-32

By ALAN L. GERSTENECKER

of the Press-Record

MADISON — Admittedly, Madison High School girls' basketball coach Carol Cole has been reluctant to admit her team's potential. But after Tuesday night's 79-32 romping of the Roosevelt High (St. Louis) Lady Roughriders and an 11-0 start, Cole is a believer.

"It's hard to believe that the teams we've been playing are actually as bad as we've been beating them," Cole said. "I guess maybe we are pretty good."

Although Cole's arrival at that conclusion has been made recently, it hasn't come without suspect. After decisive victories in most of their games this year — many as much as 50 points — Cole suspected that the Trojanettes were a power to be reckoned with. In fact, even as early as the final game of last year, a sectional championship loss to Bunker Hill, Cole was confident of the Trojanettes' fledgling ability.

But historically, the Trojanettes are one of the best teams in the area. Each of the last two seasons, for example, they're zipped through their season only to lose to their old nemesis, Bunker Hill. Consequently, Cole, being somewhat superstitious about admitting greatness before it's definite, has been reluctant to admit her team's potential at least openly.

But, with Tuesday's lopsided victory over Roosevelt, prior to the boys' final game things are different. It was a confidence builder for Cole and her belief in the Trojanettes' ability.

When Coach Cole had been reluctant to openly assess the Trojanettes' abilities, other people haven't.

Earlier in the season statewide pollsters rated the Trojanettes fifth in the state. Most recently, their status has been elevated by the same pollsters to fourth.

"Now, I don't hesitate to tell them they're good basketball team. I tell them they're good to build their confidence. But, too, I tell them there's a fine line between confidence and cocky," Cole said. "Confidence will get you a win. Cocky will get you beat."

To safeguard the Trojanettes against cockiness, Cole has instituted what she calls "serious sessions," a time when she sits down with the team and discusses basketball — nothing but serious basketball — with her team. The last such session was last Wednesday, just six days prior to Madison's romp of Roosevelt.

Plans To Upgrade Program YMCA names Carenza director

By ROGER KRAMER
of the Press-Record

Chris Carenza, the Tri-City YMCA's new physical-program director, is coming into his new job with big plans for the facility. Carenza, a 31-year-old St. Louis native and former collegiate All-American soccer player at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, is hoping that two health trends will pay off for the YMCA.

The new program director, along with Executive Director Dave Permite, are making plans to add new programs and upgrade the program, including plans for a new Nautilus weight training center at the facility on 2901 Edison Ave.

The second, more ambitious project is creating fitness programs for area businesses. Carenza is currently contacting area corporations to create fitness programs for their workers.

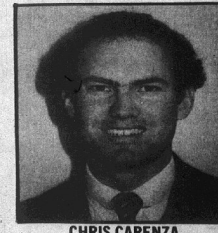

One of his goals is to create new program and contact different corporations to determine how the YMCA can best serve them according to their needs. We want to develop a good image for the YMCA in the community so people will use our facilities," Carenza said.

Carenza, helped lead the Cougars to their first NCAA soccer championship in 1972 and was a member of the U.S. Olympic soccer team. Carenza played two seasons for the North American Soccer League's San Antonio Thunder and played in the English second division for the Orient F.C. team.

Carenza eventually became the soccer coach at Avila College in Kansas City and was named Midwest Coach of the Year after his team placed fourth in the NAIA finals in 1982. He served as Director of Community Relations for the Kansas City Comets, but he decided to move back to the St. Louis area to be closer to his family.

"This position fits in exactly with what I have been doing the last four years. I've ran promotions and we feel we can get people interested in our programs. We think corporations would be interested in fitness programs because healthier workers are more productive," Carenza said.

Despite Carenza's soccer background, he does not expect the YMCA's soccer program to be extended. However, he said he would be willing help soccer programs existing in the area as much as he could.

On Tuesday Devils ground Eagles; back on winning track Still Have Perfect Conference Record

By ROGER KRAMER
of the Press-Record

LIVINGSTON — In the brief history of the Illinois Gateway Conference, only one school has yet to lose a conference basketball game: Venice.

The Red Devils, a charter member of the conference when it formed in 1981, won all five of its conference games during the 1981-82 school year. When the conference went to a full home-and-home schedule last season, Venice won it with a 10-0 record.

It looks like the Red Devils are on the way to a third straight conference title with an unblemished record. Venice, 13-5 overall, defeated Livingston 88-61 Tuesday to increase its conference record to 5-0.

The Red Devils have four more conference games left. The only serious challenges to break Venice's 21-game conference winning streak are Metro-East Lutheran on Friday and St. Paul (Highland) on Feb. 18.

Venice also has games with Livingston and Worden left on the schedule.

Although continuing the conference winning streak was nice, the main concern for Venice Coach Clinton Harris was shaking the Red Devils out of their latest slump. The Red Devils had lost three of its last four games prior to Tuesday, including losses to Madison, Litchfield and Lovejoy.

"We wanted to get back on the track again," Harris said. "We wanted to run the offense as we should, and we wanted to play tougher defense. Out of our last four games, we lost three of them, and that had to be a let down for us."

"We did lose to a rival school and some good basketball teams, and I know there had to be a little letdown, especially when we lost to Lovejoy," Harris said.

Even though Venice led 41-23 at halftime and appeared to have little chance of blowing the lead, Harris still wasn't pleased with the way Venice was playing.

In the first half, the Red Devils' offense was almost nothing but fast breaks, even when one wasn't in order. Because the Red Devils chose to run-and-gun instead of work for a shot when the situation called for it, they missed nearly a dozen attempts to score in the first half.

"We're a running team because that's what we do best, but there are going to be times when we can't run up and down the court, and we've had problems with that the last five games. We tried to run the ball even when we didn't have the chance to run," Harris said.

The major problem the Red Devils had the last five games was making the transition from defense to offense. Venice, quicker than most of the teams it faces during the season, occasionally loses the ball while trying to bypass the opponent's defense.

"We had to work on getting our transition game down. We had to work on running the offense because you can't run with everybody you play," Harris said.

Venice did settle down in the second half and worked the ball for the good shot. However, the Red Devil defense forced six turnovers in the third quarter alone, and those turnovers allowed Venice to use the fast break to the best of its potential.

Fortunately for Venice, the mixture of offenses worked because the Red Devils outscored Livingston 47-38 by only nine points in the second half. John Taylor, a junior guard for Livingston, scored 18 of his 23 points in the second half. Meanwhile, sophomore Jeff Augustine scored 14 of his 18 points in the second half.

"I didn't think we played too well in the first half, but after we talked about that at halftime, we played good offense and defense in the second half," Harris said.

Venice had plenty of offensive punch. Seniors Eddie Salmond and Phillip White each scored 26 points for the game. Guard Larry McGhee, held to two points in the first half, finished the game with 17 points.

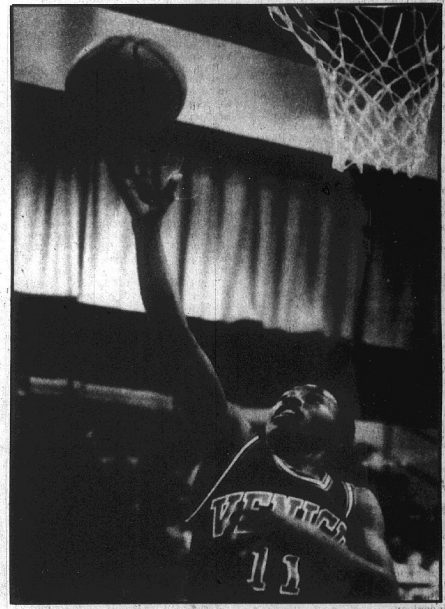

"This is the time that we have to learn because the important games are coming up pretty soon," Harris said.

Besides playing Metro-East Lutheran at home Friday, the Red Devils travel to Columbia Saturday night for a nonconference game.

Quad Cities Soccer Association begins new season, new officers and big plans

The Quad-Cities Soccer Association recently held its annual election of officers for 1984. The new board of directors include: Clint Potter, president; Mark Beasley, vice president;

Gary Mendenhall, secretary; Greg Puszek, treasurer; Dennis Gilmore, director of schedules; Nancy Marti, director of referees and Dave Nenninger, coordinator.

The Quad-Cities Soccer Association represents 1,200 area youth and adults who play recreational soccer. The Association is presently developing a sports complex off Highway 151 (formerly Highway 3) adjacent to Prather Junior High School.

Major funding for the development of the playing fields and the concessions stand have come through contributions from local businesses and association fund-raising events. The completed concessions stand will be operational for the Spring season and the projected completion date of the new playing fields set for the fall of this year.

The association thanks its coaches, sponsors, parents and benefactors for their help and cooperation for helping them establish their association in the Quad-Cities and for allowing them to proceed with the development of their sports complex.

They would also like to remind all local business persons and citizens that the Quad-Cities Soccer Association is a non-profit, tax-exempt organization and need their support to finalize the development of the complex. All contributions and/or donations are totally tax deductible.

Annual registration for new and existing players and teams will be held on March 2 and 3 at the Harold Brown Community Center. Registration is open to all boys, girls, men and women in the Quad-Cities area interested in playing organized soccer.

Because of the great demand in the area, QCSA is planning to expand competition to accommodate more girls divisions, as well as men's and women's divisions.

Any new players unable to attend the open registration can register by qualifying a $20 check and a copy of the birth certificate to the Quad-Cities Soccer Association, P.O. Box 624, Granite City, Illinois 62040. Complete registration information is available by calling the Soccer Hotline at 877-1282.

The Association is seeking qualified referees over the age of 14 and adults interested in coaching in the spring season.

Jefferson College squeaks by Stars

By ROGER KRAMER

GRANITE CITY — The Granite City Center women's basketball team wanted to win its third game in a row, but the Stars came just a little bit short.

GCC, which defeated Lutheran College and Lindenwood College last week, came close to making it three wins in a row, but Jefferson College edged the Stars 64-56 Wednesday.

Although GCC Coach Keith McFarland could not be at the game because of the death of his mother, Clabbe Briggs, GCC volleyball coach, and Larry Graham, GCC men's basketball coach, combined to lead the Stars.

"All of the coaches at GCC help each other out," Briggs said. "Larry and I ended up being here. I had the girls in volleyball, so it's pretty easy to get along with them."

The efforts of Briggs and Graham almost ended in an upset of Jefferson, a member of the Midwest Junior College Athletic Conference. The Stars made it difficult for the Vikings to put the ball inside in the second half. In fact, GCC outscored Jefferson 31-25 in the second half.

Only the efforts of Gerald Zeth saved the Vikings. Zeth scored 12 of her team leading 20 points to keep the Vikings ahead.

However, the Stars' Ruthie Jacks almost singlehandedly charged GCC's offense. Jacks scored 30 points. Jacks made 13 of 33 tries from the field and four of four free throws.

"Ruthie had a helluva ball game," Briggs said. "She really works hard and hustles and made a lot of big baskets for us."

Jacks, who scored 16 points in the second half, got a little help from forward Cindy Stokely, who scored 10 points for the Stars.

Jefferson, which tied by as much as 18 points late in the first half, opened the second half with eight turnovers in the first 10 minutes of the second half.

GCC cut the Vikings' lead to eight with 1:17 left, but a pair of free throws and a lay-up by Zeth in the final minute clinched the game.

GCC, 2-7 for the season, travels to Jefferson Feb. 6 for a 2 p.m. game.

Cagers down Cahokia; get GEC win

By PAULA WISE
of the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — The Granite City Warrior girls' basketball team held off a second-half rally by Cahokia Tuesday night to take a 46-41 Gateway East Conference victory away from the Comanches. The win makes the Warriors' overall record 5-4. Their conference record is now 2-1.

Granite City completely dominated in the first quarter. Nancy McClew was the first to get the Warriors on the board when she scored after a Cahokia turnover. Debbie Brandt made the score 4-0 on a pass from center Loretta Cox.

Granite City continued to dominate and increased their lead to 9-0 on a Kathy Juhasz free throw. With 1:45 left in the first quarter, Cahokia's Sue Coleman put in her team's first points making the score 9-2.

The Warriors traded baskets with the Comanches for the rest of the quarter and led 13-6.

Cahokia looked like a different team in the second quarter. The Comanches scored the first six points, decreasing the Warrior lead to one point, 13-12.

A Brandt free throw broke up the Comanche scoring spree and got the Warriors rolling. McClew added four more points to give the Warriors a five-point lead, 17-12. Granite City continued hold their lead and led 19-15 at the half.

"We should never have let them come back," stated Warrior Coach Jordan Galbreath.

"They started beating our press because of their big girl. She made a big difference this time," he added. Galbreath was referring to Debbie Avery, Cahokia's 6-foot 2-inch center. Avery didn't play the last time the Warriors met the Comanches. Despite Galbreath's praise, Avery's own coach wasn't as complementary.

"She played horrible," Cahokia Coach stated bluntly. "She had such a good game last week and then came out tonight and played like this. I don't know what is wrong with her."

Although Avery managed to score only 12 points against the Warriors she was a definite factor on the boards.

The Comanches again outscored the Warriors in the third quarter. With 4:17 left, the Comanches tied the score at 25 on a jump shot by Coleman.

After a basket by Brandt, the Comanches continued their scoring drive. With 2:50 left, Cahokia took the lead for the first time in the ball game 28-27. Granite City rebounded to tie the score at 34 at the end of three quarters. After an early scoring threat by the Comanches, the Warriors dominated the fourth quarter. They outscored their opponents 12-7 in the final frame to take their second game in as many weeks from the Comanches.

Despite the win, Galbreath was disappointed in his team's overall performance. "I can't get them to relax. Cahokia figured our press out early and we couldn't get it going again. The girls don't understand that they have to keep moving on the press. I was ready to take it off in the third quarter. Then they finally got it going again in the last few minutes," Galbreath said.

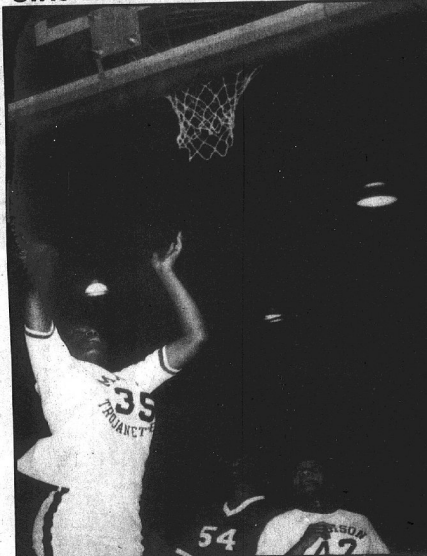

The Warrior's next match is tonight when they will travel to Madison for a 6 p.m. contest.

Trojanettes

Evidently it helps. Roosevelt was never in the ball game. The Trojanettes more than doubled the Lady Roughriders point total in each of the four quarters.

"They weren't a bad ball club," Cole said of Roosevelt. "But we sure handled them easily enough. We went into the game dead serious, and although we experienced a lapse, a time when I thought we stalled, we kicked in and ran away with the ball game."

In essence, the Trojanettes did more than kick it in, they poured it in and on. Regina Banks, the Trojanettes' leading scorer this year was so again Tuesday with 16 points.

Stephanie Walker and Kim Stanley each bolstered Madison's attack with 13 points apiece. Angelette Dandridge, the Trojanettes' soft-spoken forward, managed 12 points while running, gunning Angie Shipp picked up 11 points.

This evening, Madison will get its chance to extend its undefeated record to 12, but to do that they'll have to beat near rival Granite City. The Trojanettes will host the Warriors, now 5-4. Jayvee action begins at 6 p.m.

Renaissance opens new facility Friday

The Renaissance Fitness Center, located at 20 Crossroads Plaza, will open its new facility at 301 Stearns, formerly the Granite City Racquet Club, this Monday, Feb. 5, at 6 a.m. The announcement was made Wednesday by Danny Cox, Renaissance owner.

According to Cox, Renaissance at its current location, will close at 2 p.m. Friday so health club personnel may move its facilities to the new location.

Cox estimates that when the new facility opens Monday 90 percent of the renovation will be complete.

This weekend, the Trojanettes will begin competition in the St. Paul Girls' Basketball Tournament in Highland. The Trojanettes, seeded second in the tourney, will meet the Riverview Gardens Rams in the first round on Saturday, Feb. 4, at 10:30 a.m.

Should they win, the Trojanettes will play again on Monday at 4 p.m.

A loss will put them in the consolation bracket and they will not see action again until Tuesday at 5:30 p.m.

One final note, one of rescheduling on the Trojanettes. Last Monday's game with O'Fallon Tech of St. Louis was cancelled due to inclement weather. That game has been rescheduled for Tuesday, Feb. 21, at 5 p.m. at Madison.

Survey reveals winter dangers to pets

A disturbing number of frostbitten pets are showing up in the nation's veterinary hospitals, according to a just completed survey of members of the American Animal Hospital Association (AAHA).

One doctor reported a case of frostbite so severe a cat's ears had fallen off. Others tell of treating ice-encrusted, frostbitten paws.

Just because a pet has a fur coat doesn't mean it's invulnerable to cold. And, simple as it sounds, the most important thing one can do, is provide a warm, dry, preferably indoor shelter. Veterinarians can give pet owners information on making outdoor shelters warm and waterproof, if one has an outdoor pet.

The survey ranked antifreeze as the second major winter hazard to pets. Unfortunately, anti-freeze is a tasty treat for both pets and children. Ethylene glycol, a common anti-freeze ingredient, is a cat and dog killer. It destroys a pet's kidneys if not immediately treated by a veterinarian. Respondents recommend keeping the containers out of reach and thoroughly cleaning up any spillage.

Gastritis symptoms or paw irritation could result if a pet ingests rock salt, so pet owners also are advised to guard against this. And the subzero version is even more dangerous. Pet owners should remove salt residue and apply baby powder and baby oil to a pet's paws after returning from a walk outside.

Another frequently fatal winter hazard is the automobile. Cats in particular, seek warmth under car hoods and near the exhaust system, which can cause "muffler burn." A simple tap on the horn before starting the car will usually frighten away any hiding animals.

MIDWAY WILL END FLIGHT SERVICE TO ST. LOUIS

Midway Airlines in Chicago will cease all flight service to St. Louis effective with the last flight at 7:25 p.m. Feb. 29, Neal F. Meehan, president, said. "We regret having to make this decision. However, due to over-capacity in the market, we will redevelop the St. Louis Aircraft to more profitable routes.

"The six full-time and five part-time employees will be offered employment at Midway's other 10 stations." The airline has served the local market since June 1, 1980.

Other tips to help winterize a pet include having their nails clipped, checking with the veterinarian to see if the pet needs extra wintertime calories and giving the animal a bath oil rinse after each cleaning.

$1 checkoff helps federal candidates

By simply placing a check mark in the appropriate block on the federal income tax form, taxpayers may participate in financing the 1984 Presidential election campaign, the Internal Revenue Service said.

The fund was established by Congress to support public financing of presidential election campaigns, according to the IRS.

A taxpayer wishing to designate $1 of his or her tax money to the fund may mark the "yes" block on the form. On a joint return both taxpayers may choose separately to designate or decline to designate to the fund. If one or both decline, the "no" box should be checked.

Designating $1 of tax money to the fund does not increase a taxpayer's tax bill nor decrease a refund, the IRS noted. The "yes" designation does not mean that the $1 qualifies as a political contribution for a tax credit, according to the IRS.

Local group finishes 3rd in national contest

The Hooter County Express, a bluegrass band from the Quad-City area, won third place in a National Bluegrass Contest conducted last week in Nashville, Tenn.

Wayne Miles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Miles, 118 Kinder Lane, is a singer and guitarist with the group. Band members also include Frank Flowers of Cahokia, Bill Cross of St. Louis, Frank Ray of Hillsboro, Mo. and Ferrell Stowe, Lebanon, Mo.

PAUL COOKE

Former resident earns degree

Paul Cooke, 27, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Cooke of Granite City, received a Ph.D. Degree in Physiology this month from the University of California at Berkeley.

A graduate of Granite City High School, Dr. Cooke received a B.A. degree in Biology from Westminster College in Fulton, Mo., prior to his graduate studies at Berkeley.

The former resident recently received a National Institute of Health Post-Doctoral Fellowship and is presently a Research Fellow in the Department of Anatomy at the University of California in San Francisco.

ATTEMPTED BURGLARY

An exhaust fan mounted in a wall at the Wayside Tavern, 2160 Washington Ave., was found pushed in and a portion of the suspended ceiling was knocked down in a burglary attempt, reported during the weekend. The front door also was found to be unlocked, but nothing was immediately determined to be missing, reports indicated.

The Pontoon Lions plan an Operation Snowball Feb. 11

The Lions Club of Pontoon Beach, in conjunction with the Plaza Health Care will offer an Operation Snowball workshop on Saturday, Feb. 11. Operation Snowball is an alcohol and drug abuse prevention program. This one-day workshop is being offered free of charge to all area high school teenagers.

The Operation Snowball workshop will offer teens accurate information about the effects of alcohol and drug abuse on individuals, families and the community. It will offer its participants increased feelings of self-worth by examining their attitudes and values. It also will help teens to learn how to make responsible decisions about alcohol and drug use and interpersonal relationships. Finally, the workshop hopes to promote an increased trust and openness among teens and adults.

The Operation Snowball Workshop will be conducted at the Pontoon Beach Senior Citizens' Center, 3910 Route 111. Any teen who is interested in participating in the workshop may do so by calling Lion George Goodwin at 344-3311 by Tuesday, Feb. 7.

Goodwin said that the following three rules must be followed by all participants. No illegal drugs are permitted. Participants must spend the entire day. Anyone leaving the site will have their parents notified. Finally, all persons attending must participate.

A lunch will be furnished along with drinks and snacks during the day at no cost to the participants.

Housing authority picks operations supervisor

By JIM WOODCOCK

The Madison County Housing Authority commissioners have chosen Nathaniel Frison of Alton as the Authority's new operations supervisor.

Authority Executive Director Bert Hampton told The Herald that Frison will be responsible for the management and maintenance of all real estate and buildings.

FRISON TAKES over the duties previously held by former Authority assistant director Dewey Van Dyke. When Van Dyke retired last September, the title of his job was changed to deputy director.

Program Supervisor Linda Belovich has been the acting deputy director since Van Dyke's retirement. Hampton said the deputy director's post will later be given to either Frison or Mrs. Belovich on a permanent basis.

Hampton said Mrs. Belovich will continue to administer the Authority's various modernization and administrative programs, as well as the Section 8 subsidized housing program.

FRISON, 45, is currently a program specialist with the Illinois Department of Public Health. He formerly was employed by Olin, Inc. He earned a bachelor's and master's degrees from SIUE.

His prior experience includes a 14-year stint as a commissioner on the Alton Housing Authority. He later served that authority as the chairman of the board for five years.

"He has the attributes we were looking for," Hampton said. "He was unanimously selected."

Frison was among three finalists from a field of 29 applicants for the position.

The three finalists were interviewed by the board of commissioners last last week.

GC MAN CHARGED WITH DUI, IMPROPER LANE USE

Live big band concert in SEMC this Sunday

There aren't too many fun things to do in a hospital bed, but patients at St. Elizabeth Center will get a chance Sunday to hear a live concert without leaving their rooms.

On Feb. 5, Stan Fornaszewski's big band will give a benefit concert in the hospital's Bonaventure's cafeteria at 6:30 p.m. The performance, which is free to the public, will be broadcast live to the patients on the Medical Center's closed circuit television channel. The concert also will be videotaped and will be shown on Southwestern Cable's channel, Channel 16. The Stan Fornaszewski Big Band is a local group which plays a wide variety of big band music. The band will perform classic songs from the Big Band Era, such as Glen Miller's "String of Pearls," "American Patrol" and "In the Mood," as well as more contemporary orchestra music, such as "Nine to Five," "Ease on Down the Road" and "I Love the Night Life."

Edwardsville club hosts Hospice of Madison County

The 90 member Edwardsville Rotary Club played host to seven representatives of Hospice of Madison County at a recent luncheon meeting. The hospice representatives were there to personally thank the local service club for their donation of $1,500. The gift will allow hospice to purchase a complete filing system from Peterson Business System, Inc., for the main office located in St. Elizabeth Medical Center in Granite City and to furnish the new Edwardsville Volunteer satellite office with a desk and chair.

The new volunteer office is located at 4 Cottonwood Road, Building 3. Lois Lybarger, director of volunteers, is in the Edwardsville office two half days a week, Tuesdays from 8 to noon, and on Fridays from noon to 4:30. However, the office is covered by telephone five days a week.

Mrs. Lybarger explained to the Rotarians what the hospice program is doing to support and to care for the terminally ill and their families in the Madison County area. She did this by introducing each of the seven representatives and told of their roles in the program. Donna Beatty was introduced as a lay volunteer, who supports and assists the families in caring for the patients in their homes. Dr. Ann Beatty assists in the training of volunteers, both lay and professional. Deb Ludwig and Linda Steele, registered nurses, both volunteer their time to provide skilled nursing care to the hospice patients. The lay and professional volunteers are only a part of the team assigned to assist and support each hospice family. It was explained. Also introduced were Nina Millett, R.N., MSW, as the program director, and Rosemarie Lindner, Brown, director of public relations.

Hospice is only one of the many community organizations that have benefited from the Edwardsville Rotary's generosity. These men are spearheading the current three-year fund-raising drive of $250,000 for the Edwardsville YMCA. Rev. Carl Bennett, president of the Rotary, discussed their many contributions to the community, including fund raising for the high school athletic field, local parks, their scholarship funds and fellowship programs.

Robert Simon, treasurer and newly-elected district governor, discussed the Rotary's International Conference in June 1984, in Birmingham, England. The local club will be sponsoring a tour of cities in England for some of the 18,000 expected people. The club's profits from this tour will go towards World Community Service in Kenya. Simon will be one of the 10 local people attending this international meeting.

STEAL AIR COMPRESSOR

Phillip Jaime, 1643 Spruce St., reported at 1:50 p.m. Monday that an air compressor valued at $250, an engine starter worth $40 and a 12-volt battery costing $60, had been stolen from his garage, which was burglarized on three separate occasions.

Reading program gives books to local students

Prather Elementary School has held the first "Reading Is Fundamental" distribution of free books to its students.

RIF is a privately and federally funded motivational reading program that provides free books to pupils. For every dollar spent on such books, federal funds comprise 75-cents and the remaining quarter is the responsibility of the local sponsor — in this case, the Prather Elementary Parent-Teacher Association.

Tom Haefer, a Chapter I reading teacher at Prather School, is assisted by another teacher, Mrs. Betty Doyle, in supervising the program.

Later in the 1983-84 school year, Prather will have an RIF walk to help gather contributions toward the local payment for the books.

During the school year, each child will receive three books. The RIF program seeks to meet the need of youngsters to have books in their homes.

Each student selects his or her own books. The idea of a free book amazes some of the children, faculty members say.

Along with each child receiving three books during the school year, other reading incentives have been built into the program. These include receiving a book if a parent attends a PTA meeting, receiving a book for each month of perfect attendance, and receiving a book when the student receives his or her Independent Reading Certificate.

Also, another book is given for every additional ten books the student reads. Haefer estimates that a total of 3,000 books will be given to the students during this school year.

Besides Prather Elementary School, Marshall School and Webster School also participate in the Reading Is Fundamental program. These programs are under the direction of Mrs. Josephine Wagoner and Mrs. Peggy Dillard, respectively.

RECOVER AUTO STOLEN SAME DAY FROM GC LOT

A 1980 Buick Regal sedan stolen from Stearns Auto Sales, 4083 Nameoki Road, was recovered by officers at 11:50 p.m. Monday at the rear of an address in the 2000 block of Missouri Avenue, reports said.

After police were alerted to the theft by a caller at 9:10 p.m. Monday, they found a chain pulled down in front of a vacant space, where the missing vehicle had been parked on the sales lot.

At the time of recovery, it was noted the vehicle had sustained damage to the right rear and was partially stripped. The key was in the ignition and items removed from the car were in the trunk, reports said.

Hutchinson was taken into custody at home and was released later after posting a $104 cash bond.

Jennetten outlines college financial aid opportunities

John Jennetten, director of student work and financial assistance at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville (SIUE), stressed the availability of assistance for college students at a workshop he conducted at Granite City High School Tuesday night.

Jennetten said that talk about proposed cuts in financial aid have resulted in some people becoming "scared off." The cuts (President Ronald Reagan proposed for college financial aid have never occurred," he said. "But a lot of people heard about cuts and think money is not available anymore."

"ALTHOUGH THERE haven't been any cuts, there have been some changes in the program. The increases to financial aid have not been keeping pace with inflation, so the money given won't go as far as it has in the past."

The SIUE director's workshop came in conjunction with Financial Aid Awareness Week, a week Governor James R. Thompson set aside to inform potential college students about what types of help are available.

Jennetten said that the number of college students is rising because many persons who have been laid off from work are going back to school to learn a new skill. "People contemplating going back to school need to know that financial assistance is available," he said. "And they shouldn't just concentrate on one type of aid, they should apply for various forms."

SOME OF THE types of aid available are: Pell Grants, National Direct Student Loans (lending rate of 5 percent), Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants, College Work Study, Illinois State Monetary Awards, Guaranteed Student Loans (lending rate of 8 percent) and private grants and scholarships.

Jennetten said persons interested in applying for financial assistance have several options of who to consult. Students may talk to high school counselors, go to the financial aid office of the college they wish to attend, look at financial aid reference materials in the public library or get assistance from educational opportunity centers, which are located in Alton, Edwardsville and East St. Louis.

Persons also may get assistance from federal government agencies.

For more information about these types of grants, students may call the Federal Student Information Center at 1-800-494-0070.

JENNETTEN SAID that because of the increased demand for financial aid, students are being urged to apply early. Deadlines for financial aid are June 1, 1984, for continuing students and Oct. 1, 1984, for new students. These deadlines are for the 1984-85 school year.

New course offerings featured at SIUE Summer University

Summer University 1984 will see at least 15 new course offerings at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, ranging from business management to a course in computer language for high school teachers. Nurses in Olney and Effingham can upgrade their skills. Gifted student education, English grammar, the English novel, and the management of both hazardous waste and municipal affairs will be addressed from fresh perspectives.

Paul Gaston, acting director of Summer University at SIUE, said a special approach to philosophy for children and training for school nurses is on the agenda. There will be new opportunities for prospective engineers. Courses will range out as far as the Carbondale area, and new class meeting times will be available.

GASTON SAID existing courses will be made available through innovative scheduling and fresh formats to students unable to take advantage of courses offered in the traditional summer schedule.

The new offerings grow out of proposals from eight of the schools throughout the university. Together they reflect an intention to make summer educational opportunities more convenient and accessible to area students, Gaston said.

The School of Nursing will initiate a course sequence in the Olney and Effingham areas which will let registered nurses complete work toward the bachelor of science in nursing (BSN) degree. Further, the school will begin to offer an existing Medical-Surgical Nursing graduate program in a concentrated three-summer format.

THE PROGRAM of "outreach" instruction in the Carbondale area will be continued by the School of Nursing and a course for Metro-East school nurses in the counseling and care of pregnant adolescents and school-age mother will be taught.

Gaston announced that for the first time, students in the School of Engineering can pursue courses in the summer quarter. This will establish an additional entry point and enable the school to expand considerably its program in Electrical Engineering.

The School of Business, which now offers a popular program leading to the MBA degree, will begin to provide daytime classes during Summer University for students who cannot attend evening classes.

THREE COURSES in education for the gifted will take on two-week workshop formats. The workshops, designed by the School of Education, will meet in sequential two-week periods. They will give specialists and other interested teachers an opportunity to learn about current methods and materials.

The School of Sciences is offering two courses. The first, a seminar on hazardous waste management, will meet on weekends. The second will cover PASCAL, a computer language. Addressed to high school teachers, it will enable them to develop a teaching competence as they obtain experience in the application of the language, Gaston stated.

Courses in "En... by for Children," in English grammar, and in the English novel comprise the offerings of the School of Humanities.

"PHILOSOPHY FOR Children" will appeal to educators who wish to learn more about this curricular trend, Gaston said. The review of English grammar seeks to assist high school teachers in responding to new state standards for graduation.

The course in the English Novel is organized to have the professor and students meet formally for only two weeks, one at the beginning of the summer and the other at the end. In between, students will use the time to read and consider the assigned novels in the light of the first week's class discussion.

The expertise of a number of department heads from Metro-East municipalities will come into play in "Municipal Operation Management," the course offered by the school of social sciences.

"IN ADDITION to these new initiatives, Summer University has sought to make its regular summer offerings more accessible and convenient by modification of its scheduling practices," Gaston said. He indicated that students who have encountered scheduling difficulties in past summers, should find that conflicts within the schedule have been considerably reduced.

The new schedule will call for day courses during the eight week session to meet three times a week, cutting out overlaps between such courses.

Gaston also announced that an earlier starting time, on the hour rather than the half hour, should enable many students to develop more convenient schedules. For the most part, classes will meet at 8 a.m., 10 a.m., noon, Most labs will meet at 2 p.m. and most evening classes will begin at 6 p.m.

"FURTHER DETAILS on Summer University, its new offerings, its regular offerings and its revised schedule will soon be available," Gaston said. Persons interested in summer education opportunities at SIUE may call the Summer University Office at 1-692-3772.

Registration is set for spring quarter

Spring quarter registration for continuing students at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will officially begin Monday, Feb. 13, and continue through Saturday, March 10, according to Eugene Magac, director of admissions and records.

Advisement is required for all students before they are allowed to enroll in classes. To see an adviser, undergraduates who have not yet declared a major and those not seeking academic degrees should contact the Office of Academic Services, located in Room 1315 of Peck Classroom Building. Those who have declared major should contact their academic units.

GRADUATE STUDENTS should contact their academic units if they have been admitted into a program. If they are unsure of their status, they should check with the Graduate School.

At the time of their advisement, all students receive signed Course Request Forms (CRF) and appointment cards which will permit them to register. Registration is scheduled in the Enrollment Center located in Room 1309 of the Rendleman Building.

Students who will be attending the university for the first time should seek early advisement. Individuals must be admitted to the university before being advised, Magac said.

FOR ADDITIONAL information concerning admission policies, applications and procedures, interested persons may call 1-692-2720, counseling and advisement at 1-692-3701, or registration procedures at 1-692-3868. Spring quarter classes begin March 24.

THE TRIP begins with a flight to Germany, then on to Switzerland, and France by motorcoach and across the English Channel to Great Britain by ferry.

In addition to touring the historic sights of Europe, students will earn three semester hours of college credit.

The price of the tour is $1,499 a person based on double occupancy. In addition, tuition is $63, ($6 for senior citizens). A $500 deposit is required at time of enrollment. The balance is due April 16.

Selecting your retirement date

By OLIVER M. HOLMES
Social Security District Manager

A question that often comes across my desk is whether it makes any difference what time of the year a person retires as far as his or her Social Security benefits are concerned. In general, the answer is no.

Many people retire at the end of a calendar year as a matter of convenience. Their W-2 forms will be ready as a record of their most recent earnings, and they simply feel comfortable starting a new phase of their lives at the beginning of a new year.

The Social Security law permits people to retire anytime during the year without affecting their Social Security benefits.

Benefits start with the month a person requests, as long as he or she meets all conditions of eligibility.

However, people who plan to continue doing some work after retirement should be aware of the limits on earnings for people receiving Social Security benefits. A person can receive all benefits for the year if his or her earnings do not exceed the annual exempt amount.

In 1983 this was $4,920 for people under 65 all of that year and $6,600 for people 65 to 70. Benefits are reduced $1 for each $2 of earnings over the exempt amount. There is no limit on earnings for people 70 and over.

The exempt amounts increase automatically each year to keep pace with increases in average earnings.

During the first year of retirement, a monthly test applies. A person can get a benefit for any month he or she earns less than the monthly limit and does not perform substantial services in self-employment regardless of total earnings for the year. The monthly limit has been $410 for people under 65 and $550 for people 65 and over.

This enables a person to retire any time of the year without having earnings during the months before retirement count against benefits.

For self-employed people, consideration of whether they have performed "substantial services" in their business determines whether a person is retired for Social Security purposes. Forty-five hours or more of service to the business during the month is always considered substantial. Less than 15 hours is never considered substantial.

Any income a self-employed person receives after the year of retirement that is based on work done before retirement will not cause reduction. Many self-employed persons receive income long after the work is performed, and such income is not considered a sign that the person is not retired.

This rule is especially helpful to self-employed insurance agents who receive renewal commissions after they retire, and retired farmers whose leftover crops are sold in a year after they stop farming, sales people who receive deferred commissions, and persons who continue to receive income from their investment in a business or partnership.

We suggest that a person planning to retire apply for Social Security benefits about three months before the month he or she expects benefits to begin. This assures plenty of time for us to process the claim and to take care of any problems that may arise. Don't wait until you want your benefits to start to find out you have a problem.

Free income tax assistance for the elderly

Free income tax assistance will be available for the elderly of this area on Tuesday and Friday beginning Feb. 7 through April 13, at the Red Cross Building 21st Street and Edison Avenue, from 9 a.m. to noon, according to Elva M. Hoover, District Coordinator for Central and Southern Illinois.

Russell Moss, local tax-aide coordinator, said this is the ninth year of the program which is sponsored by the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP).

Both federal and state returns will be reviewed by counselors that have been trained by the Internal Revenue Service and the Illinois Department of Revenue. Ten members of AARP Chapter 1340 have taken the training to assist the elderly and handicapped, Moss explained.

Any older citizen who needs assistance with their tax returns is advised to bring a copy of last year's return together with all notices received such as interest, dividends, pension and forms received from IRAs and the State of Illinois, Moss added.

No appointments are necessary as seniors will be served in turn.

ARRESTED ON 3 CHARGES

Felicia J. Asaro, 28, Alton, was arrested last week on Nameoki Road at the West Pontoon Road left-turn lane for driving while under the influence of alcohol, failing to reduce speed to avoid hitting the rear of a car, and weaving between lanes while northbound. She was released Thursday on $102 bail. The other motorist, Joseph Davidson, St. Louis, had halted for a red light.

Eagles Auxiliary initiates six candidates

The Eagles Auxiliary initiated six new candidates: Marie Whyers, Helen McNally, Janie Melson, Lois Buzan, Marcia Chapman and Joyce Peach, at a monthly business meeting. Also, the reinstatement of Alice Price and Lois Weeks was welcomed.

The initiation team consisted of Gladys Freeman, president; Helen Frazier, junior past president; Carol Hill, vice president; Vincene Zerlan, chaplain; and Ann Konopka, conductor.

The draping of the charter was held in memory of Francis Steinman, a past Granite City Eagles Auxiliary President and Past State Auxiliary President, who recently died. Mrs. Steinman was a 32 year member of the local auxiliary, it was noted.

Mrs. Freeman presided over the meeting, at which time the pledge of allegiance was given by the members led by the conductor pro tem, Mrs. Konopka, and the opening prayer was given by Mrs. Zerlan, chaplain.

The members welcomed Mary Tegel, the only local charter member, who has recently moved back to Granite City from Michigan.

Secretary Helen Frazier read a letter of thanks from the Tri-Cities United Way for the donation to their cause. The membership report was also given, with new members being signed up for each month for the fiscal year.

The Freeport, Ill. auxiliary has extended an invitation to attend their state auxiliary president's weekend to be held on Feb. 4, 5 and 6.

The visiting chairman reported sending a get well card to Lucille Pierce, who is in the hospital, and a sympathy card to the family of Francis Steinman.

Mrs. Freeman announced the following events to be sponsored by the Aerie: Feb. 11th - Valentine dance; Feb. 18th - birthday pot luck; and Feb. 19th - Aerie officers breakfast at the Eagles Home at 9 a.m.

Prizes for the evening were awarded to Marcia Chapman and Mary Matosian. After the meeting refreshments of homemade cookies and fruit cocktail were served by hostesses Helen Lipchik, Ann Konopka and Vincene Zerlan.

Women of Moose approve candidates

Members of the Women of the Moose, Chapter 247, approved the application of three new candidates for membership at a meeting held last week, at the Moose Lodge.

Junior Regent Delilah Kramer presided at the session and announced the new members and sponsors to include, Brenda Mackie by Pat Mackie, Jo Ann Haines by Benetta Boyd, Vendell Jones by Cindy Rothmeyer. They also approved a transfer for Donna Pfeiffer from the Decatur chapter to Granite City.

Protem officers for the night were, Margaret Fronabarger, Mary Murgic, Mildred Votoupal, Alice Staggs and Florence Voyles.

Junior Graduate Regent Sylvia Wood presented her Award of Achievement to the chapter and noted all honors have been made for the previous year. Members working for honors will receive them at various times during the year, she added.

It was reported that a gift was sent to Robert Chapman at Mooseheart Child City on behalf of the local chapter.

Refreshments were later served by the Child Care committee followed by a Sharon session. Prizes were won by Sharon Hancock and Theola Garcia.

The next meeting, Hospital Chapter night, will be held on Feb. 8.

Videotape your wedding

How do you go about making a videotape of your wedding?

• Speak to your clergy first. Some churches do not permit photography of any kind during the ceremony; others, only from the back.

To ensure that the wedding movie doesn't become more important than the wedding itself, you may want to tape pre-wedding and reception events only.

Hire the best. It's a good idea to avoid an untested amateur — or even a pro, without wedding experience.

• Select the packages you want. Most companies offer several, with the difference lying in the quality of the equipment they'll use, as well as in the look and sound of the finished product.

In the higher price range ($500 and up), your wedding takes on the appearance of a real "movie," complete with titles and special effects. Whatever you contract for, you're smart to get it all in writing.

• Plan the "script" with your cameraman. A pro will know how to cover the basics (the bride and groom cutting the cake), but will appreciate help in identifying not-to-miss scenes involving relatives and friends.

• Arrange for playback. A video cassette recorder is the machine you'll need to run the tape on your own television set.

• If you already own home movie equipment, consider having film made instead of a videotape. For a 30-minute film, expect to pay about $300 for silent, $700 for sound film. Shop carefully in your area for the best price.

Traditional hope chest is back

You can't keep a good man — or a cherished tradition — down.

Even before TV brought Princess Di's fairytale wedding to Prince Charles of England into 400 million living rooms, the pendulum had begun to swing from barefoot-in-the-park nuptials to the ceremonial walk down the aisle with all the trimmings the budget could muster.

"The old-fashioned wedding is back," says Carolyn Davis, bridal consultant for The Lane Co., maker of cedar chests. "And it's back with all the time-honored traditions — engagement rings, organ music, lace veils and three-tiered cakes — and some modern adaptations, like the cedar chest, a descendant of the hope chest."

For all its ups and downs, marriage has been a flourishing institution since the first caveman felt the pang of loneliness and abducted a wife to fill the void. The bridegroom who captured his wife by force usually wrapped her up to carry her off and the bridal veil is said to be reminiscent of this elementary form of courtship.

Many of the customs and rituals with which today's brides and bridegrooms join in matrimony are rooted in antiquity. "The cedar chest, for instance, has roots that go all the way back to the ancient Egyptians," says Davis. Over the centuries it found its way to France, Germany, China, Italy, Russia, England and, finally, America, as the heritage of young lovers of nearly every tongue.

When the Swiss and Germans migrated to America, they brought their dowry chests, as they also are called, with them. In these, young women would board the linens and laces, petticoats and embroidered sheets, towels and dollies they would take with them to their new homes when they married.

Diamonds need care

Although their name is derived from the Greek word "adamas," meaning indestructible or unconquerable, diamonds are not immune from accidental damage.

Occasionally, even this hard gem may be chipped or cracked by an accidental blow. Hence, one should be careful not to strike a diamond against a hard surface.

To keep diamonds their brightest and most brilliant, the Jewelry Industry Council suggests a gentle scrubbing with a jewelry cleaner or a mild detergent. A soft toothbrush is an excellent helper.

Clothing care is essential

Once the honeymoon is over and the newlyweds get back to normal living, keeping up a new relationship, an apartment and one's self — all at the same time — can be tedious business. Although new relationships and apartments require a cooperative effort, keeping one's self looking good is strictly a personal responsibility.

One personal grooming (and bridging!) problem that needs daily attention is clothing care. When it comes to cleaning clothing, two can't live as cheaply as one. In fact, clothing care is one of those costs which simply doubles when two become one.

Here, then, for the newlyweds are some easy, economical and useful ways to keep clothing looking good forever:

• Solutions which contain alcohol, such as deodorants, lotions and perfume, can upset the dyes in delicate fabrics and cause stains. Always allow these solutions to dry before dressing.

• Perspiration can leave a permanent yellow discoloration and objectionable odor if a garment is worn repeatedly. Launder perspiration-stained blouses, shirts and sweaters as soon as possible in cold-water wash.

• Use a lint roller made of a safe, durable, pressure-sensitive tape to rid clothing of lint. A stiff brush can remove nap from natural fibers and diminish the look and life of the garment.

• Don't press stained or soiled clothing. The heat will set the stains and the pressure will force soil deeper into the fibers and damage the clothing.

• Remove woolen pills (tiny balls which form on the surface of sweaters, hats, scarves and gloves with a sweater brush.

• "Down" items can be laundered at home, but need lots of space in the washer. They should not be washed in a mixed load. Placing tennis shoes or a few tennis balls into the dryer with the "down" item helps to fluff it up in the drying process.

New wardrobe for the new bride

The new bride will be delighted with a collection of dresses and suits for resort/early spring 1984 suited with a lighthearted elegance, that, after the long months of winter, is refreshingly bright and buoyant.

Easy, unfussy dresses are cut in vivid blocks of primary colors or soft watercolor pastels. Stripes, from broad awning bars to slivered ribbons of color, are prominent, used alone in unexpected combinations of stripe against stripe or contrasted with pristine white.

Unencumbered by bulky layers or wrappings, the outstanding silhouette for day or evening is the chemise, straight and body-conscious, but not body-clinging. Skirts, full at the hips and tapering towards the hem or controlled with crisp knife pleats, mixed up with short cropped tops and jackets or lean hip-banded blouses in two-piece dresses and suits reflect an emphasis on the narrowed, linear shape.

Silk shantung, linen, or fibranne combine with boldly striped silks in clean-cut luncheon dresses detailed with jaunty middy collars, sharp pleats, or geometric appliques. Actually, these dresses are really sunrise-to-well-beyond-sundown dresses, perfect for any occasion with their soft, feminine silhouettes in luxurious fabrics.

For evening, the fabrics relax, soften, and nighttime allure smolders. Jersey crepes, silk satin striped shiftons, organza, and fluid silk charmeuse drape in sinuous folds or flutter gently about the body. Shoulders play coy peek-a-boo or are completely bared, a plunging V reveals the back, a slit the flash of a leg. Subtle rhinestones lightly dust the neck, the shoulders, or the entire surface of a saucy cocktail chemise.

Silversmith mark

A law was passed in 14th century England whereby a silversmith was obliged to leave a mark on all his wares identifying them as made by him. His personal mark was assigned to him by the king.

These marks were called hallmarks because all silver articles were assayed and marked at the London's Goldsmiths' Hall.

Father of the bride

The practice of giving the bride away is not absolutely necessary in a wedding. However, it is a custom of long standing.

Children in wedding party adds special significance

One of the most pleasant responsibilities of planning a wedding is selecting the members of the wedding party. Aside from choosing bridesmaids and ushers, the bride and bridegroom also must decide whether to include children.

Traditionally, the flowergirl and ringbearer have represented a fruitful union and making them a part of the wedding can add a special touch, says Millie Martini, Bride's magazine associate editor.

With the increase in second marriages including any children from a previous marriage lets them know that they will be a part of Mommy's or Daddy's new life. Participating gives them a feeling of security in an awkward time.

As with all members of the wedding party, the smallest ones require special fashions. Today, wedding attire runs the gamut from traditional and formal to contemporary and informal.

The young girl's outfit should coordinate with the bridesmaids' dresses, yet they need not be identical. Formal weddings require long dresses, but either short or long dresses will work at an informal wedding.

Bette Adcock, vice president of design for Nannette, a leading children's wear manufacturer, notes "it is important for children to wear lighter, pastel shades, for sophisticated colors are not flattering to them."

For example, pale pink is a good choice for most young girls and blends well with mauve or dusty rose. A small wreath of delicate flowers, a pair of gloves or lace tights are some accessories to complete the outfit.

A suit or child-size tuxedo is perfect for any young boy, participating in the festivities. The style and color depend on the type of wedding and the season in which it will be held. For a winter wedding, a velvet or wool suit is proper. In spring, linen is suitable. The color should match or coordinate with the ushers' tuxedos. For more sophisticated, formal attire, a tuxedo would be charming.

Keep in mind that having children take part in the wedding requires special care and planning. Certain steps can and should be followed to ensure that this joyous occasion is a pleasant experience. Remember, children have short attention spans and are easily bored. Make sure they are well rested the day of the wedding so they will be able to last through the ceremony.

In order to alleviate some of their fear and bewilderment as they walk down the aisle, explain to them the meaning of getting married. In addition, have them practice their roles with the other attendants the day before the wedding. If they understand the significance of the ceremony on the importance of their part, they are more likely to participate with enthusiasm and the pride.

A special gift will let the children know their hard work was appreciated. A portrait of the entire wedding party will serve as a lasting memento of the event.

Proverbs 10:24 "... the desire of the righteous shall be granted."

There are over eight thousand blessings mentioned in the Bible that are available to the righteous. By association with Christ we are blessed automatically. It is even said that "as many as believe on Jesus," that is, who receive Him as Saviour, "to them WE GIVE the power to become the sons of God."

What is amazing is that a great change occurs in our desires after we accept Christ. In most cases we see less desire of carnal pleasure and more desire for spiritual blessing.

To serve Him, to please Him, to surrender our will to the will of our Heavenly Father, that is the desire of the righteous. It SHALL BE granted!

May the desires of your heart be granted.

Brides prefer roses

A recent survey of retail florists found that today's brides are choosing roses as the reigning bloom in their bouquets, in a resurgence of formal weddings with all trimmings. But these brides are combining an old-world tradition with their personal signatures by replacing classic white roses with blooms ranging from yellow to lavender hues.

Yellow roses, the traditional symbol of joy and gladness, are popular with spring brides, particularly for morning or mid-afternoon weddings.

Although many brides prefer to carry nosegays of yellow rosebuds, others are opting for wicker baskets brimming with blooms and trimmed with delicate ribbons.

Pink roses also bring a delicate touch to weddings, with their symbolism of grace and gentility.

Florists report that pink roses are especially popular with brides whose fashion themes include taffeta gowns and dainty lace gloves.

First Baptist plans Sunday musical event

Jim and Gail Elam from Riverside, Calif., will be special guests Sunday at the First Baptist Church, 21st Street and Main Avenue, according to the host minister, the Rev. Jack Cicciello.

The day will begin at 9:30 a.m. with a Sunday School general assembly in the sanctuary. Elam, a music major at California Baptist College in Riverside, will lead the group in a sing-a-long.

Sunday School promotion for the month of February will be in keeping with the theme, "Leaping into February," and each member is making one contact each day during the month, the minister explained.

During the morning worship service, Elam will direct the congregation in song and the choir will be under his direction.

A covered dish supper is planned for 6 p.m. in the fellowship hall for all members of the congregation, Rev. Cicciello added.

Ladies-In-Action preview activities

A variety of activities spanning the early spring months were previewed at Monday night's potluck dinner meeting of the Ladies-In-Action group at Briarcliff Pentecostal Church.

Upcoming events include a kitchen shower, rummage and bake sales, a mother-daughter banquet and a ham and bean dinner.

Sue Roe, newly installed president, assumed office and welcomed the members. Other officers leading the group in 1984 are: Doris Glasgow, vice president; Bonnie Davis, secretary; and Bertha Dix, treasurer.

Dorothy Dickinson, retiring president, addressed the members and expressed her appreciation for the support she received during her two years in office.

Appointments to various committees were announced. Those selected to serve this year are:

Approval Committee, Marge Glasgow, Omie Farless and Lillian Barton; funeral dinners, Dot Smith and Wanda Watson; nominating, Mary Buday, Opal Orrell and Joann Buday; and banquets, Donna Raynor and Barbara Blanton.

The formation of a new extension program—Junior Ladies-In-Action—which is geared to teenage girls, 14 years old and older, was announced.

Mrs. Blanton, who is serving as adult advisor, reported each youthful member will select a "buddy" from among the senior group.

Junior members present at the dinner meeting, who helped in the kitchen and in serving the meal, were Rhonda Allen, Jennifer Raynor and Tinetta and Tracy Cook. Special thanks were offered to the young women.

Plans were made to make new baptismal robes and curtains for the church nursery under the supervision of Mrs. Smith, and to conduct an auction of home-baked goods at the February meeting, with the officers in charge.

A rummage and bake sale was planned at the church March 8 and March 9, and a kitchen shower, focusing on linens for the church facility, was scheduled in April.

In lieu of the May meeting, a "Mother and Daughter" banquet was set for May 14, starting at 6 p.m., with Mrs. Raynor and Mrs. Blanton as co-chairmen.

Members of the Briarcliff Youth Ambassadors have agreed to help provide desserts for a ham and bean dinner to be sponsored at the church on March 24, it was announced by Mrs. Raynor, Youth Ambassador director.

Those desiring to take the test may make application at the post office. All qualified applicants will receive consideration without regard to race, color, national origin, sex, political affiliations or any other non-merit factor, Wilkins said.

Steel sales are increasing

The Steel Group of National Inter-group—owner of Granite City Steel—sold $2 billion worth of steel in 1983, compared to $1.7 billion in 1982, statistical reports show.

The corporation as a whole had a net loss of $15.1 million in the year just ended, versus a loss of $462 million in the previous year.

National Inter-group has six lines of business. Steel Group production, shipment and sales results, excluding Weirton Steel which has been sold, show an operating profit for the group in 1983.

Before the write-off of an idled blast furnace at the Great Lakes Steel Division and a coke battery at the Granite City Steel Division, there was an operating profit of $30.9 million in the fourth quarter and $22.1 million for the full year.

This compares with 1982 operating losses of $17.7 million in the fourth quarter and a loss of $154.2 million for the year.

"The significant improvement in operating results is evidence of the recent restructuring of National's steel operations, cost reduction programs—including employment cut-backs—and the recovery in demand for flat-rolled sheet," said a spokesman.

"The Steel Group operated profitably in the last three quarters of 1983 even though prices for its products were virtually unchanged from 1982 levels," a spokesman said.

The Steel Group's production in the fourth quarter of 1983 was 2,135,000 tons, versus 2,044,000 tons in the comparable 1982 fourth quarter.

For the year 1983, production was 4,576,000 tons, versus 3,552,000 tons in 1982.

Steel shipments in the fourth quarter of 1983 were 1,124,000 tons, versus 743,000 tons in 1982's fourth quarter. Shipments for 1983 totaled 4,034,000 tons, compared with 3,448,000 tons in 1982.

Sales in the fourth quarter of 1983 were $538 million, versus $366 million in the 1982 fourth quarter. As noted, 1983 sales totaled $2 billion versus $1.7 billion in 1982.

For comparison purposes, the following numbers include Weirton Steel when it was part of National:

Steel production in the fourth quarter and full year 1982 was 1,132,000 tons and 5,501,000 tons, respectively. Production in 1983, including Weirton Steel through April 30, was 5,305,000 tons.

Steel shipments in the fourth quarter and full year 1982 were 1,061,000 tons and 4,956,000 tons, respectively. Shipments in 1983, including Weirton, through April 30, were 4,579,000 tons.

Sales in the fourth quarter and full year 1982 were $534 million and $3.6 billion, respectively. Sales in 1983, including Weirton Steel through April 30, were $2.2 billion.

In the Aluminum Group, National Aluminum Corp. benefited from a sharp rebound in aluminum demand and prices, along with a reduction in costs, to report much higher operating profits of $17.7 million in the fourth quarter and $31.4 million for the year.

Further improvement in operating profits was anticipated in 1984. In 1982, National Aluminum had an operating profit of $5.8 million in the fourth quarter, and a profit of $2.3 million for the year, before an $8.5 million write-off on an investment in the fourth quarter.

Sales in the fourth quarter rose to $147 million, from $111 million in the previous year's quarter. For the year, sales more than doubled to $401 million, versus $194 million for the previous year.

Start-up of National's new foil rolling mill in Luxembourg began in November and it will be in full production in the first quarter of 1984.

National Aluminum will open an aluminum trading office in London, England, to expand its successful worldwide trading activities.

Financial Services Group: National Inter-group's net equity income from its 82 percent ownership of first Nationwide Financial Corp. rose sharply in 1983 to $7.9 million in the fourth quarter and $28.9 million for the year. This compares with income of $1.4 million in the fourth quarter of 1982 and $11.1 million for the year, which was based on National's 100 percent ownership in 1982.

Gains realized in 1983 over 1982 were mainly due to improvement in loan volume services, interest margins and higher sales by First Nationwide's home building operations.

Distribution Group: The group had an operating profit of $200,000 in the fourth quarter of 1983, compared with a $3.9 million loss, including a $3.8 million write-off for plant closings, in the fourth quarter a year ago.

For the full year, operating profit rose to $6.7 million, versus a loss of $3.7 million in 1982.

Sales in the 1983 fourth quarter were $52 million, versus $52 million for the full year of 1983, sales were $259 million, compared with $226 million the previous year.

Energy group: Continuing worldwide low demand for coal and highly competitive pricing reduced the group's sales and shipments below 1982 levels.

Despite this fact, the group generated an operating profit in the fourth quarter of $200,000 before special write-offs.

The write-off of National Mines Corporation's one-third interest in the Itaminc Coal Co. in a non-recurring charge of $81.1 million for a total quarterly loss of $7.9 million.

For the full year, the operating loss before special write-offs was $3.5 million in 1982, versus a loss of $51.6 million, including $83.4 million of write-offs for the shutdown of idled facilities.

Sales in the fourth quarter were $26 million, versus $28 million in the 1982 quarter. Sales for all of 1983 were $129 million, versus $162 million the previous year.

Dr. Layloff will address Explorer training session

Dr. Thomas P. Layloff of Madison, director of the National Society for Drug Analysis, U. S. Food and Drug Administration, will be the keynote speaker at an Explorer Scout leadership training seminar Saturday at the Collinsville Holiday Inn.

Dr. Layloff's topic will be "What is success?"

Born and reared in Madison, Dr. Layloff, as a youth, was a Cub Scout, Boy Scout and Explorer all in Pack, Troop and Post 21, at the time sponsored by First Presbyterian Church in Madison.

Dr. Layloff also is a Brotherhood member of the Boy Scout National Honor Camping Society known as the Order of the Arrow.

He currently is a member of the Adult Committee of Explorer Post 10-4 of the Quad-City area.

Exploring is a program of the Boy Scouts of America for high school and college age youth, both male and female. Most Explorer posts nationally are career-oriented youth groups.

The leadership seminar theme is "Customized for Quads."

Friends of Scouting, a non-profit organization promoting Scouting activities in the Cahokia Mound Boy Scouts Council is sponsoring the event at no charge to the participants.

John R. Hooks of Edwardsville is the group's president.

Eight of the nine Explorer Posts in the Cahokia Mound Council, which includes southern Madison County and all of Bond County, are participating.

Among the seminar topics are: leadership skills, planning techniques, post programs, fund raising projects and super activity planning.

This compared with an operating profit of $1.1 million before the write-off of idled equipment in the fourth quarter of 1982.

Total operating loss for the full year, 1983, was $4.7 million, including a non-recurring gain of $10.3 million on the sale of excess coal reserves in Illinois.

This compares with a loss of $6.7 million in 1982, before a $6.1 million write-off for idled equipment at two mines. There are indications in the marketplace that coal demand and prices could begin a gradual improvement in 1984.

Diversified Business Group: Earlier efforts to sell the National Pipe and Tube Co. at Liberty, Texas, proved unsuccessful in 1983.

The plant remained shut down during the year as demand for oil-country pipe and tubing remained depressed.

Due to the bleak outlook for this plant's markets, a special charge of $37 million was taken against the fourth quarter 1983 results for liquidation of the plant.

The diversified Business Group's Bull Moose Tube, Huron Lime and National Inter-Tech companies operated profitably in the fourth quarter.

Excluding the write-off of the National Pipe and Tube Plant, the 1983 fourth quarter operating loss was $6.4 million, versus a loss of $15.1 million in the comparable quarter last year.

For the full year, the operating loss before special write-offs was $3.5 million in 1982, versus a loss of $51.6 million, including $83.4 million of write-offs for the shutdown of idled facilities.

Sales in the fourth quarter were $26 million, versus $28 million in the 1982 quarter. Sales for all of 1983 were $129 million, versus $162 million the previous year.

In addition to Dr. Layloff, the seminar staff includes: Mike Bilbrey, a Granite City attorney; Terry Toth and Thomas A. Hooks, both Collinsville businessmen; Madison Police Officer William Weidner; John Hartman, manager of the Madison Hardies restaurant; Jason Keiffer of Pontoon Beach; Daniel Fleig of Venice; Keith Wagner of Granite City and Greg Wholesaler of Highland.

W. F. "Mick" Strange of Madison is coordinating the event.

BURGLAR TAKES TV, RADIO

8 Democratic presidential hopefuls on Illinois ballot March 20

By BILL WINTER
of the Press-Record

Some of them may have little chance of winning the Illinois Democratic primary, but no less than eight presidential candidates are vying in this state's "beauty contest."

The beauty reference has no relation to candidates' visual appearance; the non-binding competition is described in this way by some political observers, as a means of separating that phase of the primary from the races involving delegate candidates—favoring specific presidential hopefuls.

With Walter F. Mondale the favorite to lead the March 20 voting, other Democrats on the ballot in Illinois include John Glenn, the Rev. Jesse L. Jackson, Gary Hart, Alan Cranston, Reubin Askew and George McGovern.

These seven and Ernest F. Hollings participated in a nationally televised debate Jan. 15 in Hanover, N.H. Hollings, a U.S. senator from South Carolina, was stricken from the Illinois ballot four days later because of insufficient petition signatures.

The eighth official aspirant on the ballot in this state is a woman, Betty Jean Williams, Madison County Clerk Evelyn Bowles reports.

Ronald W. Reagan, currently completing a four-year term as president of the United States, announced his reelection plans in a nationwide TV broadcast Sunday night. He is the only person seeking the Republican presidential nomination in Illinois, in contrast to 1980, when there were numerous GOP (Grand Old Party) contenders.

Illinois was the first state in which Pres. Reagan, an Illinois native, formally asked that his name be listed on a primary election ballot. That happened Dec. 27 when Cong. Lynn Martin of Rockford submitted the president's signed statement of candidacy to the State Elections Board.

Several states have held primaries or caucuses, but Illinois is one of two states that require candidates to declare their intentions by late December. A short time after the congressional filing petitions with the state board in Springfield, a representative of Mr. Reagan submitted similar documents in New Hampshire.

Eighty-three national convention delegates will be elected in the Illinois Republican primary while Democrats are choosing 116 delegates. Leaders of both parties will choose additional delegates later in 1984.

Vice-presidential candidates will be selected at the national conventions this summer without direct advice from the states or voters.

In his remarks this week, Pres. Reagan said, "Vice President (George) Bush and I would like to have your continued support and cooperation in completing what we began. Our work is not finished."

(In 1980, our national defenses were dangerously weak. We had suffered humiliation in Iran. At home we were adrift, possibly because of a failure here in Washington to trust the courage and character of you, the people.)

"We were on the brink of economic collapse from years of government overindulgence and abusive overtaxation. Inflation had risen to 19 percent in March of 1980 and interest rates were over 21 percent, the highest in 120 years."

"Productivity, industrial production and actual wages and earnings were down. The only things going up were prices, unemployment, taxes and the size of government. While you tightened your belt, the federal government tightened its grip."

"Inflation has dropped down to 3.2 percent. Interest rates have been cut nearly in half. In just the last year, four million people have found jobs, the greatest employment gain in 33 years."

"America is back, and standing tall."

"We have more (work) to do in creating jobs, achieving control over government spending, returning more autonomy to the states, keeping peace in a more settled world, and seeing if we can find room in our schools for God."

Candidate Jackson is expected to speak at Edwardsville High School in mid-March. It was announced during the past weekend.

The Chicagoan is seeking to form a "rainbow coalition" of women, blacks, Hispanics and other minorities and is encouraging active voter registration efforts.

Jackson, making his first try for public office, has been active in civil rights and anti-poverty groups and has sought to persuade major companies to increase their minority hiring and franchises.

Former Vice President Mondale, a Minnesotan who already has campaigned here, sought contributions from Quad-Cityans in mailings this week. He pledged to:

"Stop the reckless arms race and move us toward a safer world; stop runaway federal deficits and restore America's economic competitiveness; and restore our commitment to social justice."

Mondale has been running for the presidency for several years but did not announce his candidacy until Feb. 21, 1983—19 days after Sen. Cranston of California had launched his own campaign.

By April 23, when Sen. Glenn of Ohio announced, six Democrats had thrown their political hats into the presidential ring.

By November, Jackson had entered the campaign. It was not long before he played the key role in securing release of an American aviator shot down in the Midwest.

Still viewed as the front-runner—although many who saw the New Hampshire debate said Sen. Hart and Rev. Jackson were the most effective in their responses—Mondale not only is well ahead of his rivals in public polls but also has the endorsement of many groups, including the AFL-CIO.

Mondale's letters here—with reply envelopes marked "to my personal attention, WFM"—asserted that "Ronald Reagan thinks Americans are lazy and don't really want to work; that the poor want only the next government bailout; that blacks, women, environmentalists and human rights advocates have gone too far."

"Ronald Reagan is dead wrong. He does not understand America, or how the vast majority of Americans live day to day. He does not understand the distinction between the vital, assisting role of government and the areas where the government should stay out."

"No president nor government can do everything. But with a clear understanding of America's values—and with the wisdom of experience—the president can make a real difference," Mondale said.

Sen. Glenn, the first U.S. astronaut to orbit the Earth and the richest of all the Democratic White House aspirants, is fighting slippage in his bid to overtake Mondale and has just switched to a new campaign chairman.

The former Marine Corps officer served as his party's 1976 national convention keynote speaker. Although criticized by some for an "unexciting" oratorical style, he emphasizes that he is, "more than any of the others, speaking directly about the issues," including a "tax hike if necessary to balance the federal budget."

Asserting that he is in the political mainstream more than any of those competing with him, Glenn says Mondale is soft on national defense, loose with taxpayers' money, apt to promise too much to special interest groups, and responsible for many of the problems associated with the Carter presidency.

That he participated in most Carter decisions but that his ideas as vice president did not always prevail.

Sen. Hart, chairman of McGovern's successful campaign for the 1972 nomination (and chairman of the unsuccessful race in that year's general election), stresses that the nation "is ready to elect a person in his 40s."

The Coloradan says he is offering new ideas to solve old problems, including programs to "reform the military and put people back to work."

Hart recommends federal loan guarantees and other forms of governmental cooperation with business and labor to save major industries. He would seek to control wages and prices through tax credits and penalties.

Acknowledging that he trails at this point, but recalling 1972, Hart says of Mondale that "Sen. Edmund Muskie had all the endorsements lined up, too."

McGovern spoke in the Granite City High School gymnasium on the Saturday night before he suffered a landslide loss to Pres. Richard Nixon on a dozen years ago.

Undaunted by the magnitude of that defeat, he is as outspoken as ever. He says this nation's 1983 "invasion of Grenada" was unjustified and he proposes to cut defense spending, not merely reduce its rate of growth. He was defeated for reelection to the U.S. Senate in 1980.

McGovern advocates withdrawal from Lebanon and Central America, cancellation of the B-1 bomber and MX missile, federalization of welfare, imposition of a nuclear weapon freeze, and development of a program for federal rebuilding and operation of railroads.

Sen. Cranston says, "I will do all a president can do to end the arms race before it ends us. It will be my absolute priority. If we blow ourselves up in a nuclear war, no other issues are going to matter much."

Believing that his California residency would be helpful in a presidential race against former California Gov. Reagan, Cranston thinks he will acquire key support for the nomination if he is able to win some of the early primary elections. He defeated Mondale in the Wisconsin Democratic convention's straw poll in June 1983.

Cranston proposes public works hiring, loan guarantees, federally-backed low-interest loans, continued farm price supports and a "social compact" to fight economic inflation.

Askev, Florida's 1971-79 governor, is a Miami lawyer still plagued by limited name recognition nationally.

He opposes a nuclear freeze and compulsory union membership, would not rule out a grain embargo, and would oppose domestic-content automotive legislation, figure abortions, seek new immigration rules and reduce cost-of-living adjustments.

Agreeing that he is "a different Democrat," Askev of many of his viewpoints, because nevertheless cites studies rating him as one of the best governors ever. He adds, "The presidency is an awesome responsibility. I'm not afraid of it. I'm confident I can do the job."

Whether he will get the chance is far from certain, but some say his campaign could surge if he finishes strongly in Iowa precinct caucuses Feb. 20 and in the New Hampshire primary Feb. 28.

"Super Tuesday" will be March 13, when primaries or caucuses are to be held in nine states.

ARREST TWO GC MEN

Gordon B. Shepard, 19, of 605 Kirkpatrick Homes, and James B. Ponder, 19, of 2235 E. 23rd St., were charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor after a car in which they were riding was halted at Washington Avenue and 24th Street early this week. A 16-year-old girl driving the auto was released to her parents.

ARREST FOR LEAVING SCENE

Donald R. Hill, 45, of 2834 Benton St., was arrested last week for leaving the scene of an accident, a short time after the right front of a car had hit the left rear of the parked auto of Jik S. Song, 1633 Olive St., in the 2900 block of Madison Avenue. A passing motorist provided police with a license number.

Then will come the Illinois voting seven days later.

Mondale enthusiasts say he not only will win big in this state, but that the March 20 result—combined with February and early-March occurrences—can assure him of the presidential nomination.

RELEASED ON CASH BAIL

Boyd E. Higgins, 29, of 2139 E. 24th St., was arrested for battery last week after Edward Suydam, 1611 E. 24th, was hit in the mouth with a fist at the latter's home. Higgins was freed on $52 bail.

Memorials 32

IN LOVING memory of
EVA REIC, Feb. 3, 1983.
One year has passed since that sad day, when one I loved was called away. God took her home it was His will, within my heart she lives still. — I am missed by son, JOSEPH REIC.
32 2 2

IN MEMORY of my dear beloved husband, I have lost my life's companion, a life linked with my own, and every day I miss him more, as I walk this life alone. No one knows the silent heart aches, only those who have lost can tell of the grief I bore in silence for the one I loved so well, I never knew that hearts could ache with such a bitter pain, longing for a vanishing face to hear his voice again, I never knew that nights could be lonely, cold and dim, for I have learned so many things, because of losing him. If all this world was mine to give it all and more, to give him
I loved so well, to greet me at my door. — I am longing for heaven and you, Wife.

Democrats sure to retain control of county board

By BILL WINTER
of the Press-Record

If February arrives, can March be far behind? The 1984 Illinois primary election is approaching rapidly, and one of the more confident political predictions is that Democrats will retain control of the Madison County Board.

Unless an overwhelming volume of write-in voting takes place March 20 or in November, Democrats' current 26-3 margin on the county legislative body can rise at the most to 27-2 or decrease at the most to 25-6.

Fourteen four-year terms are to be decided. Two years ago, 15 persons were elected for four years and 14 had to settle for two-year terms to reestablish staggered terms following redistricting.

Of the carryover half of the board not involved in this year's balloting, 13 members are Democrats and two are Republicans.

Among the 1984 primary pairings is a clash for the Democratic nomination in County Board District 23 between the incumbent member, Roderick Bauder of Venice, and Don Garrett of Madison. Bauder defeated Garrett in a three-way primary in 1982.

Also attracting Democratic primary opposition is District 15, with incumbent George A. Schmittling running against Daniel R. Donohue.

In District 18, where Republican Jim Hanks seeks renomination, the Democratic contenders are Edwardsville Township Supervisor Robert C. Stille, vice-chairman of the county Democratic party, and Wayne R. Schrage.

Five Quad-Cityans on the Madison County Board have terms extending until 1986. They are Chairman Nelson Hagnauer of Granite City in District 20, Morris W. Miles of Mitchell in 16, William B. Webb of Granite City in 19, Vasil Eftimoff of Granite City in 21 and Donald C. Rea of Pontoon Beach in 25. All are Democrats.

Other holdover members are Republicans Homer Henke in Four and William Aery in Six and Democrats Alan J. Dunstan in Two, R. Jack Frandsen in Three, William R. Haine in Eight, Charles E. Burns in 11, Rudolph Papa in 14, Nick J. Hamilton in 26, Michael Semanisin in 27 and Frank Vivod in 29.

The only local residents on the March board ballot other than Bauder and Garrett are incumbent Herbert Junior Milton of Granite City, unopposed in 22, and incumbent Frank Dutko of Madison, unopposed in 24. No one filed for the Republican board primary in either of those districts.

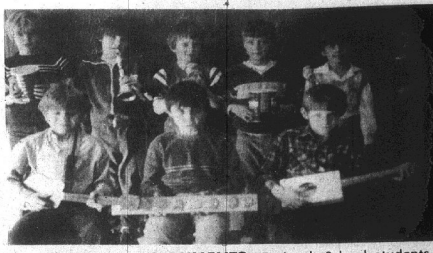

Republicans seeking nominations in 1984 aside from Board Member Hanks are Elmer J. Luber, who lost a close election in District One, Herschel F. Beane, a 1982 incumbent who lost narrowly in Five, and Michael H. Cunniff, an employee of the state's attorney's office, in Nine.
